AIRPLANE ADDS MYSTERY TO KIDNAPERS' PURSUIT AS 'G' MEN DRAW NET TIGHTER ON NORTHWEST AREA

Quitman Editor Escapes Abductors by Ruse

FALSE FIRE ALARM BY ROYAL DANIEL ROUTS 2 GUNMEN

Publisher Turns in Call Near Valdosta Instead of Posting Card Warning Ransom Note Was to Follow.

PUSHED INTO CAR, PISTOL AT BACK

Kidnapers Seize Georgian as He Leaves Office; Threaten Him With Death If He Disobeys.

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 2.—(AP)—Royal Daniel, editor and publisher of the Quitman (Ga.) Free Press, was kidnaped by two men in front of his office in Quitman tonight and forced to drive to Valdosta, where he escaped from his abductors by turning in a false firm alarm.

The men fled as Daniel pulled the alarm and he went to police headquarters to describe them. Police immediately broadcast a warning to near-by towns to be on the lookout for the men.

Pistol at His Back.

Daniel said he had just left his office and was about to get into his car when the pair accosted him and one forced him into the machine with a pistol at his back.

This man, Daniel told police, got into the back of the car and held the gun on him while the other man sat in front and directed him to drive to Valdosta, about 20 miles from Quitman.

Daniel said another car followed them all the way to Valdosta and one of his captors told him it was driven by a friend of theirs.

Just before they entered Valdosta, Daniel said, the men ordered him to stop and forced him to write a postcard to the postmaster at Quitman, telling him to watch for a ransom note. No amount of ransom was mentioned, but Daniel said the men threatened him with death if he failed to comply with their demands.

Going on into Valdosta, Daniel said, the men made him turn into a side street. There he saw a mailbox and beside it a fire alarm box.

Daniel said he suggested to his abductors they stop and let him mail

Move to Buy Silver With Cotton Urged

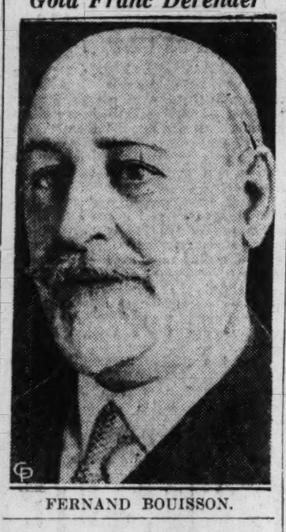

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Representative Dies, an author of the silver purchase act, today proposed a drastic change in administration of that law.

"Let the treasury buy silver only from nations which agree to buy some of our surplus agricultural commodities.

"For example, look at Germany. Germany wants to buy cotton from us. We've got 6,000,000 bales of cotton, valued at 12 cents a pound. Say silver is bringing 90 cents an ounce on the world market. We tell Germany that if she will sell silver to us, we'll give her $1 an ounce. We buy 50,000,000 ounces from her on that basis. But we have it understood that in return for the 10 per cent premium, Germany will buy $50,000,000 worth of our cotton.

Gold Franc Defender

FERNAND BOUISSON.

BOUISSON TO ASK RULE BY DECREE

He Will Go Before Chamber With Program That Overthrew Flandin.

PARIS, June 2.—(UP)—Premier Fernand Bouisson tonight concentrated on drastic measures to balance the budget preparatory to going before the chamber of deputies Tuesday for an immediate test of strength of his new "save the franc" cabinet.

He intends to proceed at once on the same issue on which Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin's government fell last week—a demand for dictatorial financial and economic powers to rule by decree until next October, at least, and possibly longer, to check the raid on the franc and keep France on its cherished gold standard.

Ready for Parley.

At Reims President Almert Lebrun asserted France is ready to talk stabilization.

The president asserted in an address at the national wine festival "France eagerly defends the principle of monetary stabilization without which commercial transactions cannot win back their former activity.

"She is ready to engage in conversations to lead back exchanges from a dangerous road. Let us hope that these efforts soon will be crowned with success."

United States Ambassador Strauss was present.

Bouisson conferred with his new ministers and parliament leaders over the week-end, starting the draft of his government's program. He hopes to complete it tomorrow and discuss it at the first meeting of the new cabinet early Tuesday, before going before the chamber.

He had the firm support and confidence of his new and valuable finance minister, the 71-year-old Joseph Caillaux. His "defense of the franc" program will be the keynote of the new ministry.

4-Point Program.

Four major points in the Bouisson-Caillaux policy include:

1—Abolition of speculation in the franc.

2—Maintenance of the gold standard.

3—Straighten out the budgetary and financial situation. A 10,000,000,000-franc (about $658,250,000) deficit must be overcome.

4—Revival of national economy.

The Bouisson cabinet expects to carry through many of the projects which Flandin had elaborated for his own recovery program. The premier and Caillaux hope chiefly to effect sharp tax reductions, now strangling commerce and industry, and immedi-

LABOR'S LEADERS CALLED TO FIGHT WAGE REDUCTION

Federation Will Resist 'To Utmost' Any Attempt to Lower Standards for Workers.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Organized labor chieftains today were summoned to a special war council to chart tactics for the battle "the emergency created" by NRA's death and to consider the supreme court's power to invalidate laws.

William Green, president, called the American Federation of Labor's executive council to assemble Thursday. He urged all workers to use "their economic strength" in resisting "to the utmost all attempts to lower wages and living standards."

Terming the high court's opinion "a severe and stunning blow to economic advancement and social progress," Green said:

"The fundamental principle involved in the decision of the supreme court is a question which must be and will be considered not only by the American Federation of Labor but by the masses of the people generally. This involved exercise of the power o the supreme court to declare laws enacted by congress as unconstitutional."

Lines Formed for Battle.

In some quarters this statement immediately was interpreted as an early forming of economic and political lines for a titanic struggle over constitutional changes. President Roosevelt already has said the issue of national control over social and economic conditions is one which must be decided by the people.

Mr. Roosevelt's remarks and Green's statement were believed here to move the likelihood of an amendment platform plank in 1936 out of

TROOPS ORDERED IN MONROE STRIKE

Talmadge Sends Two Companies to Patrol Walton Textile Mill.

Adjutant General Lindley Camp, acting on orders from Governor Talmadge, last night called out two companies of national guardsmen to go to Monroe, Ga., for patrol duty at the Walton Textile Mills where a strike has been in progress for several days.

General Camp said the decision to send troops to Monroe followed receipt of telegrams from the sheriff of Walton county, the mayor of Monroe and Judge Blanton Fortson, at Athens.

The telegrams informed Governor Talmadge it was "impossible" to handle the situation at the mill with local forces. The Monroe plant is scheduled to reopen at 6 a. m. tomorrow and the troops left the armory here in trucks in times to arrive by that hour.

General Camp said the troops consisted of 120 picked men of the 122d infantry under command of Colonel Tom Alexander and Captain D. F. Stevenson.

Following is the telegram sent by Sheriff E. S. Gordon and Mayor G. P. Hammond, of Monroe:

"We respectfully request immediate troop protection for Walton mill at Monroe now on strike. Approximately 70 per cent of operatives want to work but owing to threats of violence are thoroughly intimidated. Impossible to handle situation with local forces. Mill planning to start at 6 a. m. tomorrow."

The telegram from Judge Fortson, of the superior court circuit, in which Monroe is located, said:

"Am advised by sheriff of Walton county situation at Monroe requires

Man Hangs Self, Son From Same Rope

ARRAS, France, June 2.—(UP)—Eugene Noret, 22, last night hanged himself and his invalid son from the same rope.

Noret made nooses in both ends of the rope. He put one around his neck and threw the other end over a beam. He made it fast around his son's neck, and, standing on a chair, kicked it out from under him.

His weight jerked his son out of his wheel-chair, strangling both of them.

Key Liquor Fight Heads Council Session Today

Move To Initiate Bond Issue for Metropolitan Sewer Area Also Expected to Occupy Conspicuous Spot at Meeting.

Proponents and opponents of the proposal to seek an expression of voters of Atlanta on a measure to empower Mayor Key to operate a series of municipal liquor dispensaries and put profits into the city treasury were groomed yesterday for another heated battle at the council session this afternoon. The liquor store fight probably will be the major bone of contention at the meeting, although several other important matters are scheduled.

Moves to initiate a bond issue for modernization of the sewer district for the metropolitan area, to provide funds for improvement of the filter plants at the waterworks, to get money to construct a modern and new fire headquarters and to double the steam producing capacity of the city incinerator.

Schools Want Money.

It is anticipated that friends of the Atlanta school department also will be on deck to demand a large share of any bond funds, and a bond issue of reasonably large proportions is anticipated.

A million dollars is asked as Atlanta's share of the sewer cost, and other items already listed call for another $300,000, exclusive of any school money.

The federal government has turned thumbs down on any further sponsorship of large improvements for Atlanta unless the city provides its share of funds outright. There will be no additional bond refundings for major undertakings, it has been made plain. This attitude, coupled with the fact that federal funds will be available as outright grants if bonds are issued, has spurred various council members to action.

Five-for-One Investment.

The city will get an improvement worth $5,000,000 from the $1,000,000 invested in sewers, it is expected. Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, chair-

FLOOD AND STORM DEATHS REACH 117

Second Twister Strikes Nebraska as Elements Harass Six States.

By the Associated Press.

Mounting hourly, known Nebraska flood and storm deaths reached 79 last evening as rescue crews returned with first detailed reports from a dozen stricken communities.

Additional advices from the Colorado flood areas brought that state's dead to 19 and the general total for the harassed regions of six western states to 117.

Late Sunday Nebraska was assailed by a new twister which struck in the vicinity of York but apparently confined its damage to a farm building and telegraph wires. There were also new flood warnings from the South Platte river valley when that stream swelled to a mile in width and flooded homes in Big Springs.

Unofficial estimates of the property damage in the entire western territory aggregated $17,000,000 with Nebraska's loss estimated at $12,000,000.

In the flood territories of Wyoming the dead totaled 7: Texas had 5 deaths; Kansas 5 and Missouri 2.

The general property loss in Nebraska was estimated at $10,000,000, not including more than $1,000,000 worth of bridges washed away, another $1,000,000 in wrecked rail and telegraph lines, and a heavy loss to telephone companies. Hundreds of head of livestock were slaughtered; crops ruined.

Floods and storms accounted for at least $5,000,000 in the other states hit.

79 KNOWN FATALITIES IN SOUTHERN NEBRASKA

OXFORD, Neb., June 2.—(AP)—As southern Nebraskans mobilized today in search of victims of last week's twin disaster, the unofficial roll of known dead rose steadily and by 4 p. m. totaled 79 fatalities of flood and tornadoes.

LOANS ON COTTON SAID JEOPARDIZED

AAA Refuses Comment, Speeds Consideration of Changes in Act.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Regarding the AAA as shaken by the supreme court's NRA decision, some officials said today they believed extension of the 12-cent loan on cotton to cover the 1935 crop might be affected by the ruling.

While various predictions about extension of this loan peg on prices have been made, AAA officials steadfastly have refused to comment. They said that no prediction or comment of any kind could be made until after the first 1935 cotton crop estimate in August.

However, some AAA experts said privately that in view of the expected decision of the supreme court on the Bankhead cotton control law in the fall and the uncertain course of action now facing the entir farm program there might be some hesitancy in granting a new loan.

Loan Date Extended.

The 12-cent loans on the 1934 crop, due to expire July 1, recently were extended until February 1, 1936.

AAA records showed that 10 and 12-cent loans, for 1933 and 1934, on approximately 1,800,000 bales in the cotton pool, totaled more than $47,800,000.

The 10 and 12-cent loans on cotton outside the pool, a total of 4,387,649 bales, were said to aggregate $267,686,797.

Officials said that of the total loans, the government actually advanced only $33,171,000 in cash. The remainder of the loans was handled by banks, with the paper guaranteed by the government.

Amendments Proposed.

Extension of the cotton loan was one of the problems believed under consideration by administration farm officials as they drafted amendments designed to strengthen the entire farm program against constitutional chal-

Germany Not To Seek Parity With Britain on the High Seas

BERLIN, June 2.—(AP)—Joachim von Ribbentrop, elevated to the rank of ambassador extraordinary, went to London today to assure the British they would have a free hand on the high seas so far as Germany is concerned.

With Rear Admiral Schuster and two assistants, Von Ribbentrop will begin Tuesday to unfold to the British Der Fuehrer's paper navy, for which he is seeking Britain's blessing.

Von Ribbentrop, Hitler's expert on disarmament affairs, is also expected to discuss in London a proposed air pact.

Hitler, by his own public announcement, has no intention of renewing the former kaiser's era of challenging Great Britain's sea power.

Germany's naval proposals, it was indicated, will follow the lines Hitler laid down in his reichstag speech May 21. In the air the nazi leader wants parity with the strongest western power—France—and presumably proposes mutual assistance in case of an attack from the air.

A copy of the proposal is being sent to London. It is said to contain suggestions for outlawing bombing attacks against civilian populations.

Although the proposal calls for limitation of air fleets, nazi officials say they think the result will be an agreement among the powers not to build further than they have already done and that it will not mean the scrapping of planes already built. While Germany officially claims to have air parity now with Great Britain (and some experts doubt she is that far along) she is still well behind the French strength.

The naval talks are the first Germany has participated in since the former Allies destroyed the World War fleet.

VON RIBBENTROP SILENT ON ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND

LONDON, June 2.—(AP)—Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador extraordinary, and his party arrived at Croyden airdrome today by plane from Berlin to open naval talks with Great Britain.

The head of the German delegation of seven not only was looking forward to the conversations but also to seeing his first Derby since 1910.

"I cannot discuss the talks we are having here," he said. "I can only hope they will be satisfactory and successful."

RENEWED APPEAL TO FERA PLANNED FOR 10,000 IN NEED

Reported Harrington Will Try To Reach Hopkins By Phone Before Board Meets Today.

Spurred on by heart-breaking appeals for food from many of the 10,000 Atlantans classed as "unemployables" and dropped Friday from the relief rolls of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, W. Eugene Harrington, chairman of the public welfare board will communicate this morning with Harry Hopkins, FERA administrator, by telephone in a desperate effort to enlist a resumption of support for those who were dropped from the roles, it was learned yesterday on reliable authority.

The situation is described as desperate and the 10,000 citizens are in immediate danger of starving to death, the authority declared. These men and women are unable to support themselves and the county and city already are being taxed to the utmost in taking care of an additional 10,000 persons who are without means of livelihood.

Foodless for 48 Hours.

With the federal aid discontinued at midnight Friday, the welfare board at once became the center of heart-rending appeals from persons who were forced to go without food. Many families, it was said, this morning will have been without any kind of food for 48 hours.

The telephone plea for federal aid will be made immediately prior to the meeting this morning of the county board of supervisors, the city council and the welfare board, it was learned. The meeting has been set for 10 o'clock in the Fulton county court-

SHOCKS CONTINUE TO ROCK QUETTA

20,000 Bodies Still Are Believed in Debris of Indian Earthquake.

QUETTA, India, June 2.—(AP)—Shocks, some of which were fairly severe, continued to shake this earthquake-stricken region today.

One started a big mountain slide outside the city, but no further casualties were reported.

An estimated 20,000 dead remained buried in the debris that was Quetta as military authorities, fearing an outbreak of disease, halted work and threw a guard around the city.

The total loss of life in Friday's shocks was placed at 30,000 with two-thirds of the number buried in the ruins of Quetta.

Official abandoned hope of rescuing any more living and the workers were ordered from the ruins after extricating thousands of buried or burned bodies.

Refugee trains, filled with Indians, left the desolate city today. Most Europeans stayed to aid in relief operations. The evacuation was to continue as long as no epidemic breaks out.

Arrivals on special relief trains from Delhi today saw thousands of refugees swarming around the ruins of the railroad station. They milled about in a frantic endeavor to escape from the stricken town.

Men, women and children, many of them without food for 48 hours, at first hampered relief workers by their clamors, but the military machine soon began an organized distribution of relief.

Martial law was declared yesterday and natives from the hills caught looting were summarily dealt with. Six refugee trains were to leave today and five left yesterday.

Gilbert Is Divorced For Fourth Time

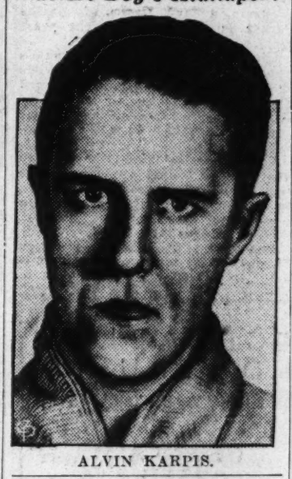

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—(AP)—John Gilbert, film actor, for the fourth time was free of marital ties today.

Virginia Bruce, screen actress, just obtained her final decree of divorce. She charged cruelty.

Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine approved a property settlement giving her $92.31 a week alimony for three years and $150 a month for the support of her daughter, Susan, and Gilbert, now 21 months old, until she reaches her majority. Gilbert had paid these obligations in a sum of $42,500, the decree showed.

Gilbert and Miss Bruce were married August 10, 1932.

FORMER ATLANTAN DIES IN NEW YORK

Baroness Rosenkrantz, Formerly Rebie Lowe, of Atlanta, Succumbs.

The Baroness Marcus Rosenkrantz, formerly Miss Rebie Lowe, member of a prominent Atlanta family, died yesterday morning at a hospital in New York city, where she had been confined with illness for several days.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lowe, of Atlanta.

Her father was one of the most important business men and financiers of his day. In addition to owning extensive real estate here, he was a founder of the Chattahoochee Brick Company and carried on large dealings in lumber and sawmills. He built railroads and operated a contracting company, also.

The baroness was widely known in Atlanta and though for 20 years she had made her home in Hot Springs, Va., she visited this city annually.

The former Miss Lowe married the late Baron Rosenkrantz, a Danish nobleman, who died last year, 20 years ago and went then to live in Hot Springs. Their estate in the Virginia resort, named Roseloe, is one of Virginia's show places.

Baroness Rosenkrantz was reared in Atlanta, the old Lowe home being situated on the spot which is now the location of the Erlanger theater, which she owned. Likewise, she retained ownership of other real estate here and also an interest in the brick kilns her father founded.

She and her late husband were leaders in society and Roseloe was the scene of much social activity for years. She was president of the Hot Springs Garden Club at the time of her death and had been prominent in women's club work.

The funeral is to be held at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Hot Springs at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and many Atlanta friends of the baroness will attend. The Rev. Ambrose H. Beavin will conduct the service and interment will be in the cemetery at Warm Springs, where her husband is buried.

Among the Atlantans who left last night for Hot Springs was Mrs. William P. Hill, who Baroness Rosenkrantz visited frequently in the past. The baroness spent a part of every year here and her coming was the signal for many social affairs given by Atlantans in her honor.

She is survived by a brother, W. B. Lowe Jr., of New York city.

A relative of the late Captain Archie Butts, noted writer and diplomat, and of the late Mrs. Louis Gholstin, of Atlanta, she was also a cousin of Mrs. Edwin Johnson, wife of the Fulton county commissioner, and of Mrs. Louie Myers, of Birmingham.

OFFICERS ELUDED IN SIZZLING DASH ACROSS OREGON

Federal Agents To Blanket Pacific Coast Territory With Serial Numbers of Notes Paid in $200,000 Ransom.

DIAMOND'S PLANE SOUGHT IN PROBE

Hunt for Karpis Centers on Badlands Near Pendleton, Where Hickman Was Captured.

PENDLETON, Ore., June 2.—(AP) A sizzling pursuit of a suspicious looking sedan that shot through Holman, Ore., at terrific speed marked the widespread hunt today for the fleeing kidnapers of George Weyerhaeuser, ransomed timber fortune heir.

Trailed through this raw, frontier-like country since late yesterday by officers noted for their conquests with rifle and six-shooter the mysterious car sped into Holman shortly after 10 a. m. (Pacific standard time.)

While an equally mysterious airplane cruised overhead, six automobile loads of police roared into Holman, 18 miles north of here, 20 minutes later.

Whether the airplane was a carrier of the $200,000 ransom collectors or a part of the pursuing group was not immediately apparent.

At Chicago, seven men, believed to be federal agents, tonight bundled another man into an airplane at the Chicago municipal airport and the ship immediately took off for an unannounced destination. The men brusquely declined comment on reports their prisoner was Volney Davis, hunted in the Edward G. Bremer and George Weyerhaeuser kidnapings.

At Tacoma, where the 9-year-old boy was returned safely to his parents yesterday, federal agents disclosed plans to blanket the Pacific northwest with serial descriptions of the ransom currency. Copies of the serial numbers will be distributed to all banks, steamship companies, railroads, newspapers and other places handling money in large amounts.

Plane Over Pendleton.

An unidentified plane swooped over Pendleton earlier this morning, giving rise to reports that the gang might attempt to escape through the skies.

It also was disclosed that Oregon police had been watching for several weeks an airplane once identified as having been the property of the late

Man Fatally Stabbed Acting as Peacemaker

Attempting to act as a peacemaker between a man and wife at whose home he resided, William T. Jones, 25, of a Boulder Crest avenue address in East Atlanta was stabbed fatally yesterday afternoon and died later at Grady hospital.

Clyde Rawls, 23, was arrested by DeKalb county police and charged with murder following Jones' death.

According to police report, Mr. and Mrs. Rawls became engaged in an argument at the residence and came to blows. Jones attempted to separate the couple and was stabbed in the left chest. He died an hour and a half after he was brought to Grady hospital.

Jones is survived by a wife and a young son, W. T. Jones Jr. Funeral arrangements are in charge of A. S. Turner and will be announced.

PIONEER GEORGIAN, MISS E. C. BACON, DIES

Moved to Atlanta Ten Years Ago From Baconton.

Miss Ella Callaway Bacon, 76, member of a prominent Georgia family, died at a private Atlanta hospital early yesterday morning.

She was first honor graduate of Wesleyan college many years ago when she took a bachelor of arts degree.

Miss Bacon was the daughter of the late Major Robert J. Bacon and Mary Belle Walton Bacon, of Baconton, Ga., in Mitchell county. She resided there most of her life before coming to Atlanta 10 years ago.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Walter G. Cooper, wife of the historian of Fulton county, Miss Laura Bacon, of Atlanta, formerly art teacher at Virginia Intermont college in Bristol, Va., and Mrs. T. M. Callawar, of Wadley, Ga., and a brother, B. J. Bacon, of Baconton.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the graveside in the Albany, Ga., cemetery, where the body will be taken this morning by H. M. Patterson & Son. The Rev. T. M. Callaway, her brother-in-law, will officiate.

AIRPLANE LENDS FURTHER MYSTERY TO KIDNAP PURSUIT

"Legs" Diamond, slain New York gangster.

The Diamond plane, it was said, had been used for smuggling narcotics and orientals into the United States and finally had been brought up here from the Los Angeles area.

Although every automobile in Washington and Oregon was potentially under suspicion, the hundreds of state, city and county officers spread their nets for the fleeing kidnapers, possibly members of the Alvin Karpis gang, the main hunt centered in the badlands around Pendleton.

The mysterious tan sedan first appeared to have crossed from Washington state into the Oregon country near Wallula, Wash., some 12 hours after the J. P. Weyerhaeuser family had paid the $200,000 near Issaquah, 25 miles from Tacoma, for the release of little George.

Car Eludes Pursuers.

Reputedly containing five or six men, the fleeing car outdistanced officers along the border by hitting a 98-mile an hour clip.

Duff Gurdane, a rancher, saw the car near Umatilla yesterday and reported it was going "like a bat out of hell."

Gurdane is a half brother of Tom Gurdane, Umatilla county sheriff who helped capture William Edward Hickman, kidnap slayer of Marion Parker in Los Angeles eight years ago.

Hickman, like many other criminals who sought concealment in the wilds of northeastern Oregon, surrendered with his hands in the air when Gurdane and Buck Lieuellen, another officer, overtook him in a high speed contest.

For a time last night, the machine was believed bottled up in a 45-mile area of northern Umatilla county, but no further trace of it was located in a night-long search.

G-Men Are Silent.

Department of justice agents in Tacoma, where 9-year-old George was returned yesterday after payment of the ransom, would not comment on the Oregon man hunt.

They received with interest, however, reports of the search as the car was sighted in apparently desperate efforts to evade the spreading army of officers.

The ace marksmen chasing the car planned to question every one who reported seeing it.

Descriptions of three men wanted in connection with the kidnaping were broadcast from Department of Justice headquarters at Los Angeles today in the first definite indication the search was spread into California.

The broadcast, described by the Department of Justice as "purely a precautionary measure" should the suspects flee south, was sent out over a state-wide police communication system.

Federal agents here said they "did not know" if the suspects were members of the notorious Karpis gang.

Agents' Message.

"Suspects probably using a Buick sedan, gray color, with a trunk on back, or a tan Hudson sedan. Numbers of license plates are unknown," said the message.

The men were described as follows:

"No. 1. Possibly a Greek or Macedonian, male 35 or 40, 5 feet 11 inches or 6 feet, 165 pounds; hair, eyebrows, and complexion dark. Slender build, smooth-shaven, noticeable lines about mouth. Wore gray felt hat and gray suit.

"No. 2. Possibly an American, male 39, 5 feet 10 inches, 200 pounds, heavy build, slightly prominent stomach; dark hair; medium complexion, no description of clothing.

"No. 3. Possibly an American, male, about 40; 5 feet 9 inches or 5 feet 10, 160 pounds; brown hair, dark complexion, may be wearing small, close-cropped moustache; probably wearing a brown checked suit."

The grim-faced army of official searchers had many clues, and an endless stream of reports on which to work as they sought the snatchers.

First was the statement of nine-year-old George himself, that six men belonged to the gang which seized him May 24 as he walked homeward at noon from his school.

Three of the men called each other "Harry, Bill and Alvin—who must be that fellow Karpis," George said, adding his own belief to a widespread unofficial feeling that the notorious midwest kidnap gang was involved.

A second important fact on which the Justice Department agents were known to be working was the $200,000 ransom fund itself, a huge stack of Federal Reserve currency in $20, $10 and $5 bills.

It was known that federal operatives have prepared a list of the serial numbers on these bills, a job which kept a large staff at work in the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the government's efficient crime fighters.

Ransom Note Studied.

Then there was the ransom note received by George's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser Jr., of the wealthy Tacoma and St. Paul lumber family. It was a typewritten message setting forth the gang's demand for $200,000 and outlining procedure for the family to follow in announcing its readiness to pay the money.

Numerous Tacoma residents came forward with statements they had seen a man resembling Volney Davis, lieutenant of the Karpis gang, there a week ago.

Justice department agents clamped silence over all their activities and it could not be learned whether they gave credence to the reports.

No word of developments was expected from the Weyerhaeuser family, which issued a statement yesterday saying George was well, but declaring it would comment no further "in the interests of justice."

The statement, made at the joyful Weyerhaeuser home, revealed also that friends had aided in raising the $200,000 ransom, but no details were given, nothing was said about when or how the abductors were contacted.

Federal Agents Busy.

Although the "G men" held off from intensive work on the case here during the week little curly-haired George was captive, actually they have been far from idle. During the seven days they quietly investigated numerous persons in the northwest. This enabled them to eliminate many false clues.

Their investigations led one member of officialdom here to declare that the Bureau of Investigation "knew who had kidnaped" the boy but expressed doubt that they knew where the gang was hiding out.

The "G men" will be surprised, it was known, if the six men are caught together, and rather expect they will be picked up individually or in pairs, possibly hundreds of miles from Tacoma and the scene of the northwest's biggest crime in decades.

With the return of the boy to the arms of his parents yesterday morning, the government for the first time came in the open in their investigations.

Abducted on Street.

George Weyerhaeuser was kidnaped on a Tacoma street as he walked home from school for lunch. He said he was turning off the sidewalk to go down some steps and follow a path when a man called him and asked street directions. The man put a hand over his mouth, thrust him into a waiting automobile and whisked him away. George said the man was the one called "Al" and that it was the only time he saw "Al" unmasked.

Most of the time he was carted around the state, George said he was kept in a trunk containing air holes.

On a machine reported wanted for investigation in the case and found abandoned in Seattle, was such a trunk.

The boy was unharmed and while tired and dirty-faced when recovered, said he was well fed, was allowed to read newspapers and that the men said they wouldn't let him be harmed, as he was too valuable. He said the men gave him a dollar bill when they let him loose in the woods near Issaquah, Wash. The dollar was used by George Honifas, farmer to whose home George trudged, to buy gasoline to bring him home. En route they were met by John Dreher, Seattle newspaperman, who took George into a taxicab and delivered him to the Weyerhaeusers.

RAILWAY CONDUCTOR E. P. WILLIAMSON, DIES

E. P. Williamson, 66 years old, of 848 Oak street, S. W., died last night at the family residence. He had been a conductor on the Atlanta & West Point railway for the last 40 years, traveling between Atlanta and Montgomery. He was a member of W. D. Luckie Lodge, No. 79, F. & A. M., a member of the Methodist church and a member of the Order of Railway Conductors.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. David O. Price, and Mrs. Earl R. Good; a sister, Mrs. V. L. Collier, of Fitzgerald, Ga.; and two brothers, L. B. and P. L. Williamson, of Barnesville, Ga.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

NOSMANDIE SLATED TO ARRIVE TODAY

ABOARD S. S. NORMANDIE AT SEA, June 2.—(AP)—Fog which cut the speed of France's giant liner Normandie during the night cleared today and officers expected her to reach Ambrose lightship on her maiden New York voyage at 9:30 a. m. (Atlanta time) tomorrow.

The vessel again smashed a record, making 748 miles from noon Saturday until noon Sunday, averaging 29.92 knots. Her average from Southampton is 29.5 knots. The Normandie from noon Thursday until noon Friday established a short-lived record, covering 744 miles at an average of 29.76 knots.

Officers held bright hopes of breaking all records for an Atlantic crossing.

Three Rattlesnakes Refuse to Bite Revivalist Demonstrating Faith Cure

ST. CHARLES, Va., June 2.—(AP) The Rev. George Hensley, Holiness revivalist, who has awed large crowds here by permitting poisonous snakes to strike his left hand in a demonstration of his "faith cure," handled three large rattlesnakes at services this morning at Ramsey, near here.

This time, however, the snakes refused to bite Rev. Hensley or any of the other five persons who handled them. This Rev. Hensley attributed to his prayers, citing Biblical passages to support his faith.

The services were held out of doors under a grove of cedar trees to permit the large crowd to witness the performance.

A crowd estimated at 1,000 was present as Rev. Hensley opened the cage with his right hand, holding his already bitten left hand quietly at his side. The revivalist took the three large snakes in his right hand, and after he had made his demonstration, Rev. Oscar Hutton, Rev. Connelly White and Bill Edmonds, Told Lawson and Loyd Scott, of St. Charles, took the rattlers in their hands and ran through the crowd, shouting and praying for such "miracles of faith."

The shouting became tremendous after the rattlers refused to bite, when they had seemed vicious while in the cage.

One of the snakes was 4 1-2 feet long with 11 rattles and the other two were three feet long with five rattles each. They had been recently caught in the mountains of Kentucky.

Rev. Hensley referred curiosity seekers to the sixteenth chapter of St. Mark and the tenth chapter of St. Luke for Biblical passages on the safety of handling poisonous reptiles.

The revivalist's left arm, swollen by a copperhead's bites, continued to improve as he had promised although it remained swollen.

He and his party returned here tonight to continue revival services.

As the performance today closed, the crowd which had packed in closely to see the performance opened up and gave way when the shouting ministers came through with the snakes in their hands.

Rev. Hensley warned the affair was "very dangerous for spectators and visitors who did not have faith."

FLOOD AND STORM DEATHS REACH 117

estimates that the death list might reach 250 and the property damage was unofficially put at more than $12,000,000.

Shortly after the first report was relayed out of Benkelman by amateur radio men saying at least 11 were dead there, County Attorney Victory Westermark reached McCook from there by plane to report the dead as 17.

McCook's death list also mounted and was 17, to top the number of victims in any one community from the floods and tornadoes. Death lists were being made up at Parks, Miller, Trenton, Stratoon, Orleans, Holdrege, Cambridge, Franklin, Alma and Curtis as additional word came in.

Meanwhile, a tornado today in the York vicinity wrecked a barn and broke a telegraph line.

Platte River Flooded.

Another new center of destruction was the south Platte river valley, where that stream swelled to a two-mile-wide torrent and flooded a few homes at Big Springs.

Oxford took on a military atmosphere as Nebraska national guardsmen led in the rescue work. Assisting in the search were five United States war department motor boats and several smaller crafts.

With rescue work well under way, guard officers made plans for an aerial survey of the entire valley with four army airplanes from Fort Crook and four American Legion planes from Grand island.

Hundreds of sightseers and anxious relatives of missing persons crowded into Oxford to get information about the missing persons. Because of the small number of bodies found here so far, rescue workers expressed the belief that many bodies might be hidden for days beneath the driftwood and debris.

Many persons still were marooned on high places and driftwood islands. An airplane which arrived from Grand island reported that a dozen persons on an island in the flood waters near Orleans waved clothing frantically to call attention to their plight.

Rescue workers were looking in trees for stranded persons, but expressed fears that many who first found such refuge had fallen into the water from exhaustion.

Death List Posted.

The death toll was made public in a written list placed in the window of an Oxford mortuary.

Officials said it might be difficult to identify some bodies readily because of disfiguration and bruises.

The Red Cross was aiding victims at McCook and other places where stricken persons were in need. Tanks were set up in McCook, where water for drinking purposes could be obtained. Efforts also were being made to get power to pump water.

The river was receding steadily and a hot sun gave Oxford its first typical summer day. Telephone and telegraph wires were flooded with requests for information concerning families in the valley. Operators said the messages came from all parts of the United States.

Bodies recovered from the river near here this morning included those of Mrs. Lee Mills, of Oxford, and Virginia Blauvelt, 23, of Edison.

Airplanes and heavy river boats joined in the hunt for survivors and victims. The planes, dispatched by the army from Omaha, flew low and sighted the marooned and signaled for the boats to pick them up. Messages were dropped to encourage the isolated persons huddled on trees and buildings.

Small boats were used all day yesterday, but many capsized and rescue of their occupants was frequently a problem.

Major Guy N. Henninger, commanding 250 national guardsmen, was pushing westward toward McCook.

The Red Cross and the national guard set up an emergency hospital in Oxford and the Red Cross launched a statewide drive for funds with M. Power directing relief efforts. Its activities included feeding 350 persons at Cambridge.

Some food supplies were being flown into McCook, where shortage of bread, water and milk were reported.

Henninger said a wire was laid along the ground from here to McCook, in the hope of co-ordinating relief efforts of the two main disaster bases.

State Engineer A. C. Tilley at Lincoln said a road had been opened into McCook from the north and that light traffic could proceed on it.

Farm Families Safe.

Relief workers returning with word of the safety of two dozen farm families on which no reports had been received previously said they believed the Oxford toll would be no more than 15.

Between 18 inches and two feet of mud lay on the floor of many homes in the bottom lands. Farmers said the flood probably changed the channel of the Republican river near here. The farm houses where damage was greatest were in almost a direct line across several bends of the river and it appeared that the river might stay in its straighter course, leaving Horseshoe-Shaped lakes.

The Burlington railroad announced 57 persons who were stranded on the Aristocrat, fast Denver-Chicago train, for almost two days near Benkelman, were removed safely and taken by automobile to Ogallala.

BOUISSON TO ASK RULE BY DECREE

ately to halt the drain on the Bank of France gold reserves.

The premier intends to lay his program before the chamber and, insisting it already has been debated on at length under the Flandin cabinet, will demand an immediate vote of confidence Tuesday. His slogan, friends said, is: "Enough talk—now you must act."

To Send Solons Home.

Bouisson also is determined, if he survives the vote, to send parliament on a long summer vacation as soon as possible, possibly by June 9 or June 19, at the latest.

Caillaux, a staunch supporter of the gold standard and a stable currency, is one of the strongest men in the new cabinet. He hopes to effect a stabilization agreement at a new ratio with the dollar and pound sterling, and restore France to a sound currency—and then withdraw from the cabinet once more, remaining active only as chairman of the senate finance commission.

In the economic field, Caillaux is a staunch believer in the inter-dependence of nations and considers business recovery can be achieved only on a world scale. He believes Europe must become one economic unit and that the tariff walls and export quotas must be eliminated.

PRESIDENT OF URUGUAY WOUNDED BY ASSASSIN

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, June 2. (UP)—President Gabriel Terra was shot and wounded by an assassin today while attending the races at the Hippodrome track here with President Getulio Vargas, of Brazil, a state guest.

The shot was fired by Bernardo Garcia, a former nationalist-independent party member of the chamber of deputies from the department of Canelones.

The wound was in the shoulder, doctors reported.

BOY BATTLES DEATH FROM DREAD RABIES

Bitter Last Week, Wilbur Moody, 11, in Critical Condition.

Bitten on the nose by a dog several days ago, Wilbur Moody, 11, of 986 Moreland avenue, S. E., was near death last night from rabies.

The boy developed hydrophobia suddenly yesterday morning and during the afternoon was rushed to Grady hospital, where three special doctors were called to attend him.

It was the first case of rabies to be treated at the municipal hospital in five years, attaches said.

Wilbur was bitten last week and had been under the observation of a physician but it was thought his condition was safe.

The dread disease, which drives persons mad and kills them with violent convulsions unless checked, developed entirely unexpectedly in the boy.

Physicians did not think he would live through the night. He was confined in the contagious ward at the hospital and had to be held to his bed.

FLORIDA LEGISLATURE QUITS 39 HOURS LATE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 2.—(AP)—The 1935 Florida legislature which adjourned sine die early this morning, 39 and a half hours after the time formally set, did these things among many others:

Appropriated $10,500,000 a year for schools and passed acts designed to produce the money.

Levied occupational and gross receipts taxes on retail stores with chain stores paying the major part of the taxes, after refusing to pass a sales tax and failing to outlaw chain stores as "evils."

Extended the privileges of homestead tax exemption to more persons.

Taxed and regulated liquor, slot machines and the Spanish game of jai-alai.

Passed a 90-day divorce residence law.

Established a system of old-age pensions but failed to provide the money.

Pulls and Runs.

Instead of mailing the card Daniel said he pulled the fire alarm and ran. In the confusion following the arrival of fire engines the men escaped.

The publisher described one of them as "a tall young man with rolled up sleeves" but he was unable to tell much about the other man. He said both spoke with a trace of foreign accent.

Daniel could give no clue as to their identity and said he had received no previous threats of any kind.

The Walton mills employ about 400 workers. Sheriff Gordon, reached by telephone tonight, reiterated the statement in his telegram that about 70 per cent of them wanted to return to work but were afraid to do so without protection.

He said several "scraps" had taken place today and that he feared further trouble in the morning.

Mill officials could not be located for comment.

FOUR PLACES ENTERED BY THIEVES IN NIGHT

Negro Seriously Wounded While Attempting To Enter Another's Home.

Two business houses and two residences were broken into during Saturday night and the early hours of Sunday morning. One negro was shot and seriously wounded and a safe was so badly damaged it will be necessary to have the vault opened by a safe expert. The thieves, however, failed to gain access to the money it contained.

Thieves gained entrance to the offices of the Pittsburgh Paint & Glass Company at 172 Marietta street, S. W., by forcing a window on the third floor of the building. They attempted to gain entrance to two safes by knocking off the combinations. One containing only papers was forced open. The other, containing currency, was so badly damaged store employes were unable to open it.

Entrance was gained by thieves to the Emory Five and Ten Cent Store at 469 Edgewood avenue by knocking the padlock off the front door. Women's clothes valued at $16 were stolen. Police discovered the open door and secured a padlock from the store's stock with which to relock the establishment.

John A. Bailey, 28, negro, was shot in the abdomen and critically wounded when he is alleged to have attempted to force entrance into the home of John Upshaw, negro, of 927 Smith street, S. W. Upshaw told police he called out to warn Bailey not to enter before he fired at the intruder. Bailey was taken to Grady hospital where his condition was reported as critical.

Carl Lester, negro, of 947 Smith street, was found by police on the front porch of Upshaw's house. He was arrested on suspicion.

Thieves ransacked the residence of L. G. Turner, at 336 Hopkins street, S. W., after forcing open a front window. They took a small amount of currency and a pocket knife.

SWITZERLAND DEFEATS 5-YEAR RECOVERY PLAN

BERNE, Switzerland, June 2.—(AP) Swiss voters rejected today a socialist five-year recovery plan to combat the depression after rioting in Geneva in which a score of women and children were injured.

Policemen last night charged a fascist parade during fighting between fascists and socialists and the women and children were trampled. Several fascists were arrested.

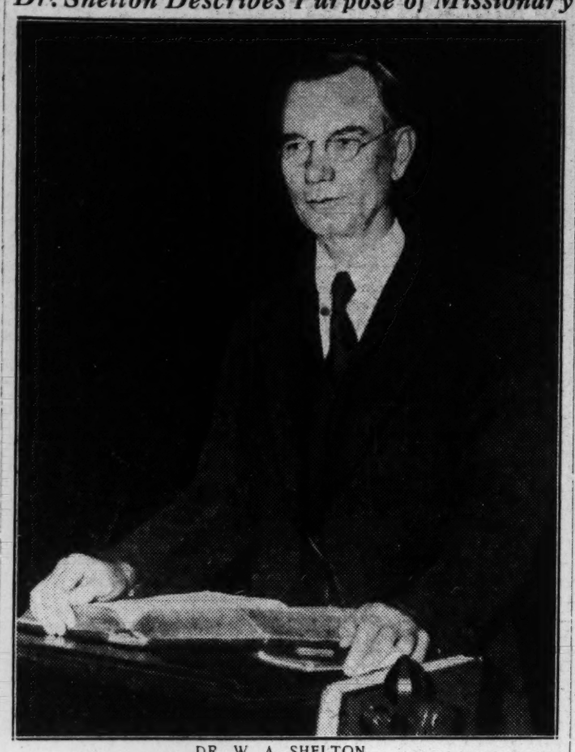

The proposed constitutional amendment would have provided a program which had features similar to America's late NRA. It was defeated by a vote of 566,000 to 426,000.

Dr. Shelton Describes Purpose of Missionary

DR. W. A. SHELTON.

Fundamentals of Christianity Are Discussed by Grace Pastor

(Editor's Note: The Constitution this morning presents the twenty-first of a series of features dealing with Atlanta Ministers and their services. On succeeding Mondays other clergymen will be shown in their pulpits together with abstracts of their messages.)

Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor of Grace Methodist church, yesterday morning took as the text for his sermon, "Thy Kingdom Come"—Luke 11:2.

"A great American has recently said: 'It is hard enough to make one Christian, harder still to make a Christian church, to make a Christian nation is a task to stagger the imagination; to make a Christian world may well seem all but impossible, and yet this, no less, is the goal which our religion sets us.'

"The Realm of God is the rule of the Almighty in a world of men. It involves a worldmindedness, a sense of otherworldness, and an abiding hope for the future. Such a realm has no boundary. It is the internationalism of the spirit.

The Three Dimensions.

"The Realm of God has three dimensions. It originates from the heights. God is its beginning. It is the challenge of the skies.

"The second dimension is depth. It must reach down and lay its foundations amid the lowest limits of human need.

"But the dimension with which we are most concerned now is breadth. Surely an institution that is as high as the throne of God, and seeks those depths which are bounded only by the gates of hell, must of necessity have unlimited breadth. Any one who thinks in terms of modern science and the enormous size of the universe, as even men can conceive it, must feel that the God who governs it cannot be confined to a single race, or hedged in by national boundaries, and in the very nature of the case would encompass all mankind. The conquest in the realm of the spirit challenges the profoundest resources of men, akin to God. The hosts of the Almighty, Christian soldiers marching as to war, moves against the universal forces of darkness as crusaders of the dawn. The crusaders of the Middle Ages exhibited admirable courage and devotion to an ideal, but they were mistaken. Men offered their lives freely, kings emptied their coffers to send those knights of the cross to the conquest of the Holy Land and the rescue of the Holy sepulcher, but the crusaders of the better day march toward the destruction of every sepulcher and the proclamation of an eternal Easter day.

A Missionary Religion.

"The Christian religion is essentially a missionary religion. God made the Hebrews the mightest potential missionary people on earth when He diffused them through the nations of the world until they learned every language, were traders, brokers and bankers of every mart and with an instinct for religion. Had they accepted Jesus and preached His gospel wherever they went the world would have been Christian in the First Century. Jesus came preaching the Realm of God which should encompass the world, and gave the Great Commission. 'Go ye into all the world.' It is the greatest challenge to human brotherhood on earth.

"The world is made up of all peoples, including America. America itself is a great mission field which needs to dedicate its resources to the glory of God, and to make its own people Christian, but it can never do this until it undertakes to make all peoples Christian. The one thing it should do and not leave the other undone. What a challenge it is!

Purpose of Missionary.

"The new missionary program is not to make other people like ourselves; not to make Occidentals out of Orientals; not to impose western civilization upon eastern peoples; not to change habits and customs except as they conflict with morality and the finer things of life, but to bring Jesus Christ into the hearts of all peoples, and make the sources of their lives and the direction of their conduct to be according to the will and purpose of Jesus. It is to share with the rest of the world that which underlies our glorious history and achievement and to give them the hope and joy that comes with the enthronement of Jesus in the individual hearts. It is the brotherhood of Jesus, the internationalism of the spirit, pioneers of the Kingdom of God, merchantmen whose wares are the goodly pearl of great price, the hidden treasure of the spirit. These are the children of God who have broken out of the narrow confines of provincialism, petty creeds, smug complacences, and have heard the cry of their brethren from beyond the seas, and with flaming torches, undaunted by any foe, are marching to the illumination of the dark places of earth, the healing of the diseases of the human heart, and the salvation of the world, and they shall march on until 'the knowledge of the Lord covers the earth as waters covers the sea.'

"The Realm of God is rooted in reality. It deals in universal and eternal truth. It is God Almighty's call to humanity to awaken to a sense of otherworldness in the soul, of the conscious realization of the depths of human need, and a worldmindedness that encompasses all human life and sets up the highest standards of human brotherhood on the basis of divine Fatherhood."

RENEWED APPEAL TO FERA PLANNED FOR 10,000 IN NEED

house, and unless federal aid is forthcoming, it is expected that desperate measures will be enacted to meet the emergency.

FERA Powerless to Aid.

Even though the 10,000 residents of the city starve to death, the FERA offices here will be powerless to provide aid without orders from Washington, officials declared.

"We have considered any number of plans to help these unfortunates, but so far we have been unsuccessful in reaching any solution of the desperate situation," Mr. Harrington said.

"At first we considered cutting the budgets of those 10,000 already being cared for by the Welfare board, but on checking up we discovered that this plan was impracticable. The average monthly allowance of the families now being cared for is only $14.69 and this sum, in the average case, provides food and lodging for three persons. If we divide this already too small amount it will mean that we will have 20,000 starving citizens instead of 10,000."

Every Case In Acute Need.

"We also considered dropping all of those but the most desperate cases from the local roles in order to be able to provide for the more desperate families cut off from the federal aid but we have found that there is not a single case among the 10,000 who are not in acute need.

"President Roosevelt and the FERA in Washington appear to be our only hope," Harrington said.

Appeals already have been made by the welfare board to the smaller municipalities in Fulton county, but even if these communities respond and assume a proportionate share of the burden, only $5,000 will be received monthly, it was estimated, and at least $50,000 will be needed.

Profit By Warning of Headlines; Secure Accident Insurance Today

"Woman injured and child killed on highway."

"Man and woman killed near Lyons in auto accident."

These accident headlines appeared in The Constitution only a few days ago and beneath was the story of how the joy of a party en route from one town to another was abruptly turned into death and sorrow by a crash on the road.

How many people starting out in automobiles ever dream in advance of a collision or an accident of some nature that may happen which will result in death and injury? You may fall victim to an accident today?

There is only one sensible thing to do: Insure yourself against travel and pedestrian accidents and do it now. There is no excuse for not doing it, except neglect, carelessness, or indifference. For only the small sum of 10 cents a month you can secure this proposition through The Constitution.

The insurance offered you through The Constitution is issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago, which company has already paid Constitution subscribers over $200,000. The insurance is offered to subscribers of the daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of the subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 69 on the one subscription going into the home at a small registration fee of 20 cents with application and 10 cents per month thereafter in addition to the subscription price of $1 each per policy per year in advance to subscribers who live in Atlanta and Atlanta subrubs where we have carrier delivery. Out-of-town subscribers can have this insurance by paying $1 per policy per year in advance.

This insurance offered through The Constitution provides for the payment of sums ranging downward from $10,000 for travel, $1,000 for auto and pedestrian deaths resulting from certain specified accidents, heavy sums for permanent injuries and $10 weekly indemnity for total disability resulting from accidents set forth in the policy, which is at the rate of $43.33 per month.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation and if beneficiary is desired, the full Christian name of beneficiary must be given and relationship of same to the insured.

Do your duty! Protect yourself and family today. Tomorrow may be too late!

RITES FOR JOHN KING WILL BE HELD TODAY

Tribute to John King, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. King, prominent Atlantans, will be paid at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the King residence at 1386 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E. Dr. J. Sprole Lyons and Dr. Richard Orme Flinn will officiate and interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Young King was drowned Saturday afternoon in a lake on the King country estate near Monticello, Ga. He was seized with acute indigestion immediately after diving off the pier into the water and his body was not recovered for two hours.

Rosser Shelton, Hill Huffman Jr., Paul Willingham, Raymond Sanders, Edmund Phillips, Willoughby Beaudry, Frazier Edson, James Dougherty Jr., and Richard De Golian will act as pallbearers and members and alumni of the Pioneer Club will form an honorary escort. H. M. Patterson & Son are in charge.

EX-GOVERNOR HOOPER'S SON DIES IN CAR CRASH

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 2.—(AP) James Randolph Hooper, 30, son of former Governor Ben Hooper, was instantly killed today in an automobile accident near Cherokee, N. C.

The car in which Hooper and three other occupants were riding was sideswiped by a truck and demolished, crushing Hooper to death.

The other occupants were slightly injured.

Hooper lived in Carson Springs, near Newport, Tenn.

CLOVER, S. C., June 2.—(AP)—Five persons, a white man and four negroes, were killed and eight others injured today in a head-on collision of two automobiles four miles west of here on the Kings Mountain battleground road.

LODGE WILL HEAR ABOUT CONVENTION FROM ALEXANDER

H. A. Alexander, prominent attorney and B'nai B'rith leader, will give a report of the recent quincentennial convention of B'nai B'rith, held in Washington, at the stag smoker to be given by the local lodge this evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Jewish Educational Alliance, at 318 Capitol avenue.

Mr. Alexander was elected to the executive committee of the supreme lodge and as a participant in the various discussions and meetings, will offer the Atlanta members first-hand information on the national convention. Joseph B. Wolfe will report on the activities of "Wider Scope," and Edward M. Kahn, president, will preside.

A kosher Dutch supper will be served.

MAN 'TAKEN FOR WALK' AND ROBBED, HE SAYS

James L. Sockwell, of 773 Capitol avenue, reported to police yesterday he was "taken for a walk" by two bandits late Saturday night, struck over the head with a sandbag and robbed.

As he emerged from a store on Capitol avenue, he reported, he was seized by the two men, who forced him to walk with them to Capitol and Georgia avenues. At that point, he said, he was knocked down and robbed of his hat, coat and a small amount of cash.

Finer-Ground Powder Kills Quicker In "Death-House" Tests

It's a fact—proved by tests on thousands of crawling insect pests, every month, in McCormick's "Death-House". These tests prove Bee Brand Insect Powder does kill insects 32% Quicker than ordinary insect powder. And that's because it's ground into many more killing particles, which stick to the insect—and kill them quicker. Bee Brand Insect Powder is harmless to children and pets—will not contaminate foods. It costs no more. Ask for it by name.

MAKE THIS "ON-THE-JOB" TEST

Whether you own ONE Truck or a FLEET like this

PROVE V-8 PERFORMANCE AND V-8 ECONOMY WITH YOUR OWN LOADS OVER YOUR OWN ROUTES

THE Ford V-8 Truck is its own best salesman . . . and it always has been. When the V-8 engine was first introduced, operators who bought Ford V-8 Trucks and tried them out became quickly convinced that Ford had built a truck that met MODERN trucking requirements. As a result, many of the biggest operators in the country changed to Ford V-8 Trucks, as their equipment became due for replacement, and started saving on operating costs.

Today, there is no need to BUY a Ford V-8 Truck to find out what it will do for you. It makes no difference whether you are in the market for ONE truck or a whole FLEET . . . you can TRY a 1935 Ford V-8 Truck without cost or obligation. Ford dealers are so proud of V-8 Performance . . . so confident of V-8 Economy . . . that they are inviting responsible truck operators to make their own "ON-THE-JOB" TESTS under their own operating conditions.

Phone your Ford dealer and ask him to lend you his demonstrator truck. Put it in service in place of one of your present units and see for yourself how it performs with your own loads, over your own routes. Keep your own time sheets, your own records of fuel and oil costs. Compare V-8 Performance and V-8 Economy.

Get the facts from your Ford dealer about the exclusive Ford low-cost Engine Exchange Plan and other parts exchange privileges. Then ask the DELIVERED price of the body type you plan to buy. You will agree with those thousands of satisfied owners who acclaim the 1935 Ford V-8 Truck as "AMERICA'S GREAT TRUCK VALUE."

ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 3, 1935.

A REMARKABLE SHOWING.

The report of Chairman E. E. Lindsey, of the state board of control, that the state hospital at Milledgeville is out of debt and will finish the year with a cash surplus reveals the revolutionary change that has been accomplished in the affairs of the institution since Mr. Lindsey and the present board assumed control a year and a half ago.

Prior to that time the hospital had for years operated under a heavy load of debt, with each session of the legislature receiving pleas for emergent relief. Despite the earnest efforts of the former board of trustees, the institution owed more than $200,000 for food and medical supplies, salaries and other operating costs when its direction was taken over by the board of control.

The liquidation of this large debt despite a material increase in the number of patients, the erection of additional facilities and numerous other improvements is an outstanding tribute to the businesslike manner in which the hospital's affairs have been conducted. As pointed out by Mr. Lindsey it has been possible only through the careful elimination of unnecessary employes, careful buying and the eradication of waste and useless overhead expenses of all kinds.

Despite these economies the hospital is now caring for more than 800 additional patients, many of them unfortunate men and women formerly lodged in county jails throughout the state because they could not be accommodated at the state hospital.

The tuberculosis sanitorium at Alto has constructed a new nurses' home, at a cost of $25,000, out of current revenues and has an increase of 91 patients, but it also has no debts and a cash balance. All other institutions under control of the board are in like healthy condition.

The record of efficiency and economy set by the board of control under the leadership of Chairman Lindsey is an outstanding example of what can be accomplished by the application of business methods to the public business.

If every government in Georgia was as wisely conducted millions of dollars would be saved to the taxpayers each year and better service rendered.

NO PLACE FOR CHILDREN

A condition responsible for a large proportion of the staggering losses in life, limb and property in America every year is emphasized in the somewhat wondering comment in Atlanta of Sir Josiah Stamp, prominent British railroad executive, that "over here every infant seems to be given an automobile soon after he receives his first rattle!"

Every day automobiles being driven by 14, 15 and 16-year-old boys and girls are to be seen on the streets of Atlanta, even including the crowded thoroughfares of the business center of the city.

Parents who would be aghast at the thought of their children playing with dangerous weapons are seemingly heedless of the fact that the automobile is a potential instrument of death, this fact having been stressed even in decisions by the supreme court.

Young boys and girls, immature both in mind and body, have no rightful place behind the steering wheels of machines, the operation of which may require, without a moment's notice, the exercise of quick judgment or the sudden call for strong muscles to prevent accidents in which the threat of sudden death and injury is always present.

The police should exercise greater diligence in ascertaining whether the boys and girls so frequently seen driving cars in Atlanta are within the age limit set by law. Those who are under the limit should be removed from the driver's seat and cases made against parents willing not only to endanger their own lives but the safety of the public.

HALTERING THE RAILROADS

Strong presentation of the handicap faced by the railroads in the aid given by the government to competing forms of transportation, and by the lack of equal regulation of other competitors, is contained in an address delivered by John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, before a joint meeting of Chicago organizations either directly or indirectly interested in transportation problems.

In discussing subsidized and unregulated competition of the railroads, particularly with reference to waterways and highways, Mr. Pelley points out that from 1906 to 1933 the United States spent $785,000,000 on inland waterways, not including the Great Lakes. He cites that—

These expenditures took business off the railroads, and not one dollar of the money spent is returned to the government. On the upper Mississippi river the annual cost for maintenance, operation of locks and snagging paid directly out of the federal treasury is somewhat more than $2,500,000. This amount, equal to $1.40 for every ton of freight moving over this route, includes nothing for interest on the capital invested. If interest on the capital investment at 4 per cent is added, it means another $1.40 per ton for all traffic moved. In other words, the taxpayers are paying out $2.80 per ton for the traffic now moved on the upper Mississippi river. This is the kind of competition the rail carriers have to meet.

If these improvements were assessed against the cost of water transportation, it would be higher than rail travel and shipments. The reason that water rates are cheaper is because the taxpayers, through the government, are meeting many of the expenses of keeping rights-of-way open for water transportation—expenses which the railroads must meet out of their own pockets.

In discussing the lack of regulation of highway transportation, Mr. Pelley recites that in 1932 alone "the obligation of motor vehicle operators for the construction and maintenance of highways exceeded their contribution in gasoline taxes and license fees by $594,000,000—the size of this subsidy by government vehicle operators from 1921 to 1932, inclusive, being $7,119,794,000."

Mr. Pelley soundly argues that—

This continuous spending of millions of dollars by the government for competing transportation systems, which greatly add to the existing surplus transportation facilities but which are not required to move efficiently the traffic of the country, is not in the public interest. At the same time, the modes of transportation that use the waterways and the highways are not required to pay proper compensation for the use of such facilities for the conduct of their business, a situation detrimental to those forms of transportation that fully pay their way. When transportation companies that use the highways and the waterways for conducting commercial business pay their way for the use of such facilities, and are properly regulated, they will then be on a more nearly comparable basis with the railroads, and this will eliminate the chaotic transportation situation and stabilize it to the benefit of all interested.

In addition to the contributions made to forms of transportation in competition with the railroads, both federal and state governments have handicapped the railroads in their efforts to reduce operating costs through the introduction of rigid economy. In addition, numerous bills are now pending in congress which, if enacted into law, will increase the cost of railroad operation nearly a billion dollars a year.

It is not surprising that with the government extending direct aid to water and highway transportation, at the same time piling on the burdens, the railroads have been brought to the position where they must have relief if they are to continue under private operation.

With the courts deflating so many New Deal dreams, we imagine the Passamaquoddy tide project will eventually be cut down to harnessing the atom.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Europe Is Easier.

The diplomatic activity of the last few months has resulted in a general relaxation in the tension that existed in Europe this year. War, or rather the threat of war, once more moves to the background. People breathe easier. The prospect of a conflict, under modern condition, was too awful to contemplate. Maybe good sense will prevail and we will be spared the destruction of western civilization. Mankind's job, the Washington administration has just reminded the world, is to break the spell of the long depression. That is the meaning of Secretary Morgenthau's announcement that America is willing to stabilize the dollar as a first and necessary step to usher in an era of recovery.

The British pretend not to understand. The motif of this pretense is transparent. By devaluating the pound sterling, England stole a march on the other states. The chief of the Holland State bank called it an unfair move. He went further: He called it a counterfeiter's trick. By that devaluation Britain was enabled to undersell all others, and especially her chief commercial rival, America, in the world markets. Then the United States devaluated the dollar in an attempt to catch up with England.

The result was economic chaos. America's call for stabilization at the present moment is a peace offer to call off the money-war and to normalize world-trade. Will England respond, or will she turn a deaf ear? In the latter case, there is no other way open for us, but to devaluate some more, and then for England to cut in below our prices—and so on, and so on, until, dear reader, you will have to pay a few million dollars for a postage stamp when you want to send me a letter. That is what happened once in Germany. The German people never got over it.

* * * *

One Lesson Has Been Learned.

Europe has learned one lesson thoroughly: She does not need to count on American participation in an eventual war of the future. This knowledge has dampened quite a few warlike ardors. America is going to hew her own way, settle her own problems and work out her own destiny. This does not mean that the United States withdraws into her shell when it comes to frank and open collaboration for the maintenance of peace and for the recovery of normal conditions. Washington's recent announcement is proof of our willingness to co-operate. That co-operation is not a negligible factor.

America is potentially capable of swinging the world into new paths. Mr. Wilson did it once and had Europe adhered to his ideals she would not be in the slump she is in today. Another voice comes from America today. Will Europe give heed? Many are inclined to listen and act. We are at a decisive moment. History hangs in the balance. Europe's recovery would decisively influence the situation in America. The Roosevelt administration is once more taking the initiative in trying to set the pendulum in motion. A first upward swing. Will Europe swing back and keep the pendulum in motion? There is the whole question for the moment, a question which is of vital importance to everyone of us.

Health Talks

Questions and Answers.

The Kiss Peril.

Please comment on the statement attributed to Dr. Thomas B. Hartzell, chairman of the American Dental Association's research committee: "There are germs in every mouth, but you'll find the same germs in all mouths, the boys' as well as the girls'."—(N. E. S.)

Answer—I believe that is true. I also believe that the germs in one's own mouth are harmless to oneself but may be pathogenic if transferred to the mouth of another person—that is, I think the germ carrier is always immune to his own germs but the germs he carries may cause disease in other persons.

Sulphite Pulp.

I was very susceptible to colds before I came to work in the sulphite pulp mill, but have had none at all since. Could the inhalation of the sulphur dioxide fumes account for this. Some men who have been much exposed to almost suffocating sulphur dioxide here claim it cures or prevents tuberculosis.—(J. B.

Answer—It may cause chronic bronchitis or chronic rhinitis, but there is no evidence that it prevents any type of respiratory infection or disease.

Focal Infection.

Wife has had chronic pain right side last six months, also in stomach and right leg sometimes. Doctor calls it chronic appendicitis. Her tonsils have been sore and inflamed for three months or more without any acute sore throat. Could chronic appendicitis cause the sore tonsils, or is it vice versa?—(J. P. R.)

Answer—I do not know, but to my mind it would seem more likely that the tonsils are the seat of the focal infection and the other troubles are secondary. Why not have the focus of infection in the tonsils cleared up by diathermy and see whether improvement does not follow? A diagnosis of "chronic appendicitis," without any history of acute appendicitis, is always a guess.

Toper's Pimples.

Besides drinking a few glasses of beer each week I generally consume about a pint of liquor one evening each week. Now I am decked out with a crop of ugly pimples almost resembling boils, over my cheeks and nose, and considerable redness of the skin.—(W. M.)

Answer—Well, well, at last we find a toper with a rum blossom. Nine times out of ten the victim of acne rosacea, toper's pimples, rum blossom, is a teetotaler. Send stamped addressed envelope and mention your trouble—acne rosacea or rum blossom.

Calcium Lactate.

Following your suggestion of calcium lactate for migraine headaches and hay fever. I began taking the tablets early in February, and have had no headaches and no signs of hay fever so far. Other years I was always sneezing and miserable the latter part of March. . . . (Mrs. B. J. M.)

Answer—Thank you for the report. I am glad to send any reader who asks for it and incloses stamped envelope bearing his address, a monograph on hay fever, or one on migraine headache, and I am always grateful to receive brief reports of the experience readers have, whether favorable or not.

Goitre.

What causes goitre? How can it be prevented? Is an operation the only method of eliminating goitre? Will operation leave a scar? (Miss E.R.)

Answer—Deficiency of iodin in the soil and hence in food and water, is the principal cause of the goitre which is so common in girls, less common in boys. This is probably a factor in the causation of exophthalmic goitre too, though other factors are concerned in this type of goitre, for which operation is more likely to be advised. A suitable oidin ration for children and young adults is the best preventive. Rest cure, similar to the regime used for pulmonary tuberculosis, is the best treatment in many cases of exopthalmic goitre. Operation leaves a scar, but if the incision is carefully placed the scar will be scarcely visible.

King George Better.

LONDON, June 2.— (AP) —King George was much better today and it was announced at Buckingham palace he is throwing off the effects of a slight chill which has kept him indoors since Friday.

He attended services in the chapel of the palace with Queen Mary this morning. He will be 70 years old tomorrow.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon

RE-REFORM WASHINGTON, June 2.—The course of reformation of the New Deal is now fixed. No definite announcement is being made because President Roosevelt does not wish to tie his hands to it in public just yet. Details remain to be ironed out. Freedom of action must be maintained. But his mind, his purpose and his method of reviving his New Deal have been personally determined.

He will go through the motions of having congress pass some makeshift substitute laws. One of these will seek to re-institute the code system by voluntary co-operation among business groups, probably under supervision of a powerless government commission.

The legal approach will be through a redefinition by congress of the "allowable limits of combination." Essentially it will be an amendment of the anti-trust laws, although it may not be called that. It will encourage the formation of business associations with well-defined objectives fixed by congress, preserving as much as possible of the NRA principles. It will not preserve much.

The administration will make no claim that it will meet the wages and hours situation which was regulated by NRA.

STATE ACTION A second step will be proposed to meet the labor situation in a similarly makeshift way. Its legal approach will be through a state from goods produced in other states under labor standards below its own. This legal principle already has been approved by the supreme court in prohibition cases. The same basic idea is embodied in the Hawes-Cooper act covering convict-made goods.

This means that the states would be encouraged to make their own NRA laws, and that the government would assume the power of enforcing them.

For instance, the New York state legislature would be asked to fix maximum working hours and minimum wages. Any goods would be barred from that state unless produced under standards identical or better than those of New York. The effect would be to cause all states to adopt identical minimum wage-maximum hour provisions.

It would require weeks, if not months, to obtain such state action.

NECESSITY No New Dealer is very proud of these two ideas. They have been accepted because there is nothing else to do immediately. It is recognized on the inside that the voluntary associations will only pretend to be effective. They will merely provide some semblance of order in the reorganization of business after the collapse of the NRA. With no centralized authority, each business will naturally do as it sees fit. Also the proposed state minimum wage-maximum hour setup is a long way from being adopted. In two or three years it might provide a feasible substitute for the New Deal reform method, if energetically pushed through congress and through the state legislatures.

REAL PURPOSE What all this heads up to is a drive by the New Deal to amend the interstate commerce clause of the constitution. This is the only way in which the New Deal can be saved. The foremost men among the New Dealers now confess it privately.

What has happened in the past week is that the president has discovered that the supreme court has given him an issue. It knocked the legal props out from under his whole show. He had built nearly all of it on the ground that the federal government has the power to regulate anything affecting interstate commerce. The court said that interstate commerce regulation applies only to goods actually in transit; that is, actual interstate commerce, not theoretical interstate commerce.

This bundled the whole question of a New Deal into one composite issue. It swept aside all the formidable natural objections to some phases of the New Deal issue. It implied the whole thing, the good parts and the bad, was not constitutional. This is conceded to be strictly correct. The court merely gave the constitution a proper literal interpretation, instead of winking at the issue, as it did in the gold case.

TECHNIQUE A constitutional amendment giving the government authority to control anything affecting interstate commerce would present the issue in the best possible broad light from his standpoint.

The strategic advantage of that course would make the picayunish, fly-swatting administration of the NRA comparatively unimportant. Neither would the questions whether Tugwell knows his business, whether subsistence homesteads are worth while, whether stocks should be regulated or any of the other questions have to be met on their merits alone.

The question would simply be: "Do you want our New Deal? Take it or leave it."

Any political student will recognize the advantage of this.

FUEL The desirability of this method depends entirely on public opinion following the court decision. This is being permitted to develop fully. The thousands of telegrams received by the president indicate a sufficient basis for the movement. If strikes should develop later, if business becomes involved in price-cutting, if the deflationary potentialities of the result are realized, the surge for the movement would increase.

COLLABORATION? The way the issue has played into Mr. Roosevelt's hands has caused a rumor to be circulated here that he knew of it in advance and was glad to get it. Also another rumor that Supreme Court Justice Hughes conferred with the president about it. There is nothing in either of these tales.

OVERHEARD First New Dealer: "There's nothing new in that supreme court decision."

Second New Dealer: "That's precisely the trouble with it."

AUTOPSY A sharp-tongued republican now refers to the New Deal as "a corpse standing up." He borrowed the phrase from Federal Reserve Boarder Adolph Miller, who used it to describe the gold standard, which is just about in the same fix.

Exaggeration Reveals the Truth If You Know How Much To Discount It

By Robert Quillen

It isn't in human nature to be neutral concerning the people we know. In some degree they attract or repel us. We like them or dislike them.

If we like them, we become their partisans and defenders. If we dislike them, we find nothing in them to commend.

This unfairness is not intentional. We simply cannot see their faults and virtues clearly, but only through the haze of our prejudice.

Thus our criticism of one we dislike is not so much a revelation of his faults as a confession of our bias.

Why do we dislike him? For any one of many reasons, perhaps, but chiefly because we envy him.

This envy may be unconscious and unconfessed, but it is none the less real. Nine times in ten, the basis of dislike is envy; and the measure of the envy is the measure of the dislike.

Among our acquaintances is a man, let us say, who is a liar, a braggart and a bully. We dislike him cordially, and we tell ourselves that we despise and abominate him because he is so hateful and indecent.

But is that the whole of it? No; if we examine our motives carefully and honestly, we find that we resent his prosperity. It seems unfair that one so unworthy should have so much more than we have. We cannot forgive him for being rich. Let him become a pauper, and remain unchanged in all other particulars, and our hearts will soften and become tolerant of his faults.

Does a wealthy woman find herself unaccountably disliking her Irish maid? She would be outraged if told that she envied one so humble. Yet she is homely and the maid is pretty, and she cannot forgive the superiority of an inferior.

However obscure the cause may be, the existence of dislike is presumptive evidence of envy. And this we should remember when we hear one person criticize another.

If a gentle gossip tells tales on some acquaintance, each should be taken with a grain of salt. Is she then speaking falsehood? Not at all. Rightly interpreted, her speech is true.

For she is saying in effect: "I wouldn't admit it for the world, but I envy this person, and the dislike born of envy causes me to magnify her faults. Please divide by three to make allowance for my prejudice."

U. S. FLEET PREPARES FOR COMBAT SHIP TEST

ABOARD BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA, IN MID-PACIFIC, June 2.—(AP)—The most powerful and efficient co-ordinated fleet the American navy ever had at sea assembled east of the Hawaiian islands today for the final phase of current Pacific operations—a test of speedy combat ships.

Dawn tomorrow will signalize the beginning of seven days of the most spectacular tactics of the six weeks' operations, which have extended from the arctics to the tropics and from California to Midway island.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

White House Reporters. NEW YORK, June 2.—For a man who is said to have influenced the press by the insidious sunshine of his smile and the distribution of a few eating jobs among unemployed brothers of the fourth estate, Mr. Roosevelt has been showing meager returns in his scrapbooks.

It would be hard to acquit him of the charge of civility often amounting to first-degree friendship, in his dealings with the reporters of the White House run or to exonerate some of them of personal loyalty to him. However, they are a comparatively small corps, and their job consists of covering the news of their run and getting along, on the best possible terms compatible with their mission, with the people whom they encounter on the beat, including No. 1.

There is very little that the White House men could do to give a president the benefit of the breaks in the papers even if he wanted them to and they were willing. That they could smother a detrimental story or conspire to color the news consistently with presidential propaganda, even if they so desired, nobody will believe who knows anything about the mechanics of the job. Anyway, the White House run, though very high sounding, is by no means the heaviest assignment in Washington and is usually just an experience, and a fairly early one at that, in the development of an all-round Washington reporter.

Roosevelt Too Smart. Bureau chiefs, special correspondents and heavy-duty thinkers get around a couple of times a week in varying numbers, and they too, in all their various sympathies and subject to their office policies, would have to be enchanted and deceived along with the people on the beat.

Thus if Mr. Roosevelt has had an ulterior purpose in meeting the press in a mood on the sunny side he has been wasting his guile, and any man that cunning would be too wise to try.

It is an odd case in which a president is suspected, merely because he meets the reporters with neither a snarl nor a growl, remembers most of them by name and engages in rather free discussion. If certain of his recent predecessors enjoyed less personal popularity with the reporters the reasons for that resided in their own demeanor.

But it made no difference, anyway. Mr. Hoover once had been the greatest personal press agent, next to Henry Ford, that this country has yet produced. But when he became president he conducted himself at his infrequent press conferences as though he had once been scared by a lead pencil. He wanted his questions written out and submitted in advance, and from these he selected the questions to which he could return the most impressive answers.

Indeed, there was a suspicion, frankly discussed in Washington at the time, that Mr. Hoover used to drop some queries of his own into the hopper in order that he might be able to use the papers as a medium for explanations intended to do his administration no harm and possibly a little good.

Yet outside the frankly political writings he took none the worst of it in the pares—just as Mr. Roosevelt, in his time and with his more personal way of meeting reporters, gets none the best of the linage.

Publishers Call Tune. It is an ignorant notion that a newspaper reporter without instructions as to policy from the owner, whose song he sings, has the power to praise or abuse, exploit or smother in a news report. The Washington reporters, as a whole, are the best in the country, and, like the sport writers who see the fighters and ball players come up and go down, they expect to outlast many presidents, committing themselves to none.

There are exceptions, of course, and the fair-haired boys of the Hoover regime, like the coat holders of the sport page who tried to root Jack Sharkey home, are still trying to believe that some one dropped something in their man's tea.

There was a bit of lapse during the Harding administration when the corps let dignity overcome the sense of news and failed to keep the country apprised and the statesmen reasonably well behaved. The present crowd also are a bit too concerned with legislation and thinking. A little more candor about the barflies and pub crawlers and the social life of the town just now might avert the necessity for some hasty rechecking and public familiarizing later on.

The so-called press agents of the administration are mostly newspaper workers who were tossed out of their specialized Washington jobs at a time of life when they weren't able to go back to the pay scale of the cub. It was their luck to be on the spot when the money was being spent and to grab stopgap jobs under the New Deal. They are without influence, but naturally they are devoted to Roosevelt. He saved their lives for a few years.

1,500 PERSONS ATTEND TRI-COLLEGE SERVICES

President Clarence A. Barbour, of Brown University, delivered the baccalaureate sermon yesterday to the graduating class of Atlanta University, Morehouse College and Spelman College at ceremonies attended by 1,500 persons and held in Sisters' chapel on the Spelman campus. He was introduced by President John Hope, of Atlanta University.

The candidates for degrees were followed in the procession by the faculty members of the three schools and the speakers' party. Kemper Harreld played the organ.

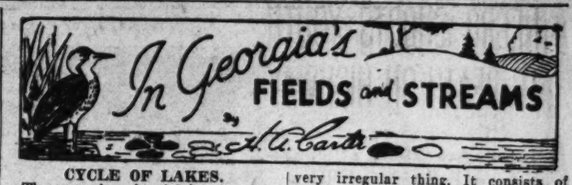

The Rev. Nat G. Long, pastor of Glenn Memorial church, delivered the prayer and Rev. John C. Wright, pastor of the First Congregational church, read the scriptures. Commencement exercises will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Sisters' chapel by Atlanta University, at which time 22 will receive degrees.

Critical Book Found By Lawrence of Arabia

LONDON, June 2.— (AP) —The late Lawrence of Arabia left a manuscript recording his life in the royal air force, it was disclosed tonight, with instructions that it should not be published before 1950.

The manuscript, entitled "The Mint," was described as "of forceful character," containing comment on the royal air force, which made immediate publication impossible.

Colonel T. E. Lawrence, leader of the World War uprising of the Arabs against Turkey and author of "Revolt in the Desert," died from injuries received in a cycling accident recently after retiring from the air force, where he had sought obscurity as Aircraftsman T. E. Shaw.

CYCLE OF LAKES.

The annual cycle of lakes is an interesting and amazing affair. Wind action and temperature make minor alterations in the basins of lakes every year and the life in the waters responds to the cycle with cycles of activity all its own.

When we arrived in the base camp in north Michigan for our work on the lakes it was the middle of June. There was a very narrow sandy beach along the shore line where we had our cabins. It was not over five feet in the widest point. In fact, going up to our meals we kept to the wooded paths because we had to get in water if we didn't. As the summer progressed the beach widened. More and more sand was tossed high at that end of the lake, for we were on the receiving end of the prevailing summer winds. By September 1 the beach was 30 feet wide in the broadest spot and not less than 20 anywhere. Nothing but wave action was responsible for tossing the sand, ton after ton of it, above reach of the water, and nothing but winds created this wave action.

There was at this place a broad shoal, however, which was even more striking than the beach. A lake basin, especially that of a glacial lake, is a very irregular thing. It consists of shoals, depressions, and channels connecting these depressions. There may be other shallow water not properly classified as shoals, also, but they are merely shallows and for our purpose today can be disregarded. What we are going to deal with is a column of water, running down from the surface of the lake to the bottom of the deepest depression; in the case I have in mind, 95 feet.

This big sand shoal was one of the limits of the Camp Davis depression. On the windward side this depression was bordered by Grapevine point, a rocky shoal supporting an animal community quite different from that of the sandy shoal over which we swam every day. Leaving the water's edge, the depth increased very slowly until one reached the edge of the shoal, when the bottom fell away at a very steep angle; above water this would have been a precipice. Such a formation is the rule and not the exception in these lakes.

Now we have the stage set for the drama of the annual cycle of the lake. Tomorrow we will begin to tell how every season for the year is literally expressed in a body of water, just as chemists and physicists have said.

LABOR'S LEADERS CALLED TO FIGHT WAGE REDUCTIONS

the realm of possibility into a very real probability.

Sharply defining assaults on the supreme court's NRA decision as attacks "upon the constitution itself," Senator Borah asserted "the people alone" and not Washington should change the constitution.

The veteran Idaho republican expressed sympathy with President Roosevelt's "almost dread responsibility in dealing with this emergency" but contended existing authority was sufficient if "faithfully and patiently employed."

"Decision Up to People."

"If the people of this country want the executive departments to have unlimited power to make laws for every conceivable activity of the citizen, violation of which would send a man to jail they, at least, should have an opportunity to pass upon the question. . . . Let us have an open proposal by way of a constitutional amendment submitted by those who want such power," he said.

Borah, a leading critic of NRA, said the supreme court's opinion was the only constitutional finding possible.

Borah's careful words did not, in so many syllables, dare the administration to propose a constitutional amendment embodying powers wiped out in the NRA decision. But that was a general interpretation here when he commended the court "for jealously guarding" states' rights and then paraphrased President Roosevelt's reference to the opinion as carrying the nation back to the horse and buggy days:

"The ox-cart system may pass out under the demands of a different civilization and of greater leaders. The political philosophy of General Johnson, Donald R. Richberg and Dr. Tugwell may supplant the political philosophy of General Washington, Madison and Jefferson, nevertheless in my judgment the ox-cart should and will hold a high place at the bar of history."

Further reaction from the country still was regarded here, however, as the determining factor in prompting definite administration action.

A suggestion by A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney-general, that a constitutional amendment could be submitted to the people and a decision obtained within 60 days was not known to be receiving White House attention.

Shouse Statement.

Also along lines of a basic constitutional change was a statement by Jouett Shouse, president of the American Liberty League. He said the Roosevelt administration which "wrote the act . . . cannot escape the major blame" for the confusion resulting from the NRA decision, adding:

"The moral to be drawn is that if those now charged with the responsibility for the conduct of the affairs of this nation wish to change our basic political, economic and social organization, they should seek to do so by the honest and above-board method of amending the constitution. That is a moral which might well be kept in mind in the consideration of proposed or pending legislation."

With Mr. Roosevelt cruising on Chesapeake bay over the week-end and some informed quarters emphatic in forecasting the president would not propose "stop-gap" NRA legislation, administration officials in Washington frankly were not informed of the next White House move. A further presidential statement was expected by them early in the week.

Richberg Is Silent.

Donald R. Richberg, after a week which saw the whole code structure he ruled washed away by nine supreme court justices, planned a quiet day at home. The latest presidential action in dismissing 411 court cases involving violations of blue eagle rules apparently had removed every semblance of NRA enforcement.

More than 4,000 NRA employes had exactly two weeks remaining on the payroll. Then, unless congress shall have acted, provisions of the recovery act which have permitted their continued employment automatically will die.

On the next day after this two-week period—June 17—450,000 soft coal miners have been ordered by the United Mine Workers to quit work, unless they receive other instructions. John L. Lewis, president, said enactment of the Guffey coal stabilization bill would prevent the strike, called after wage and hour contract negotiations with operators broke down.

Compact To Be Urged.

Secretary Perkins, meanwhile, invited northeastern industrial states to discuss here Tuesday methods of restoring by interstate compacts some of NRA's industrial standards.

But even as she issued the call, John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce, said in an address:

"The only conceivable method of attempting through the states to work out governmental regulations designed to influence our economic processes would be by a nation-wide system of pacts to which all 48 states would become parties. . . . Clearly such a system of pacts . . . would . . . place limitations upon state action in the same way that federal legislation would do."

Green's call to labor said his organization will press "for the enactment of the Wagner labor disputes bill, the 30-hour work-week bill, the Guffey coal bill and social security legislation."

In a statement today, Dr. James M. Doran, administrator, said the Distilled Spirts Institute had adopted unanimously a resolution for continuing present labor standards and business practices.

KEY LIQUOR FIGHT ON COUNCIL SLATE

man of council's sewer committee, backed by other members of that body, will ask council to instruct City Attorney Jack C. Savage to prepare a measure for the sewer bond project, and other council members will present their pet measures along with it.

Councilman John A. White, fourth ward, will offer his proposal to establish a city manager form of government for Atlanta, and will call on council to seek a referendum on the issue in the 1936 city primary.

White contends that the system, modeled after the Cincinnati plan, would be in the interest of efficiency and economy, and would be a boon to taxpayers of the community.

Another Council Wrangle.

Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, second ward and Key floor leader in the council, will offer Key's liquor store plan again to the council. This, it is expected, will precipitate another council wrangle, with opponents attempting to re-enact the parliamentary coup, which succeeded at council's last session in sidetracking debate and a vote on the matter.

McCutcheon, however, will be armed with about 12,000 signatures of Atlantans asking council to waive any scruples it may have as to the legality of the proposal, and allow citizens to decide the issue for themselves. He will contend that the supplementary list is a mandate from the voters and citizens generally to allow the vote.

At the last council meeting, the legal petition bearing 10 per cent of the registered voters of the 1934 general city election was ruled out of order and council failed to override the decision of the chair, Mayor Pro Tem. Ed A. Gilliam.

This afternoon McCutcheon will ask council members not to resort to any parliamentary artifice to thwart a vote or to keep Key from the floor. He will present the 12,000 names and ask council to hear the mayor on the matter before taking any action on the petitions. The ruling at the last session choked off any debate on the issue and prevented Key from obtaining the floor.

lenge. These were scheduled for completion by tomorrow or Tuesday.

No definite word could be obtained concerning content of the changes. However, it was believed that the amendments would include marketing agreements, but would eliminate the controversial licensing provisions of the AAA. Some form of federal rules and regulations, such as these utilized by the Federal Trade Commission or the Interstate Commerce Commission, probably would be substituted for the licensing provisions.

KING GEORGE HONORS QUINTUPLETS' DOCTOR

LONDON, June 2.—(UP)—The country doctor who made medical history by bringing quintuplets into the world and guiding them safely through their first birthday, tonight received royal recognition in the birthday honors list by King Georve V, who will be 70 tomorrow.

Dr. Alan Roy Dafoe, physician of the celebrated Dionne quintuplets, of Callander, Ont., was made an officer of the British empire by his sovereign.

King George is guardian of the quintuplets.

Seven new peers, nine baronets and 37 knights were created in the honors list.

Clement Richard Attlee, laborite deputy leader in parliament, was created privy councillor, and Walter Rea was given a baronetcy—gestures by the crown to the government opposition. Rea is the chief liberal party whip in commons.

300 SCHOOLS SHOWN CONSTRUCTED BY PWA

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Asserting it is financing most school construction in the country, the Public Works Administration reported tonight that 300 of the 1,000 school buildings it has supplied funds are completed and 400 others are under way.

PWA said the total cost of these will be more than $191,000,000, including 980 grade and high schools and 151 college buildings.

NEGRO SHOOTS YOUTH TO DEATH ON HIGHWAY

Seven Are Held at Jonesboro Following Killing of Boy.

Marvin Clower, 20-year-old Atlanta automobile plant worker, was shot and killed and two others narrowly escaped death early yesterday morning when a negro man fired at them as the culmination of a roadside argument in Clayton county.

Sheriff E. L. Adamson, of Jonesboro, said Clower was almost instantly killed.

Winfred Robertson, of Hampton, was wounded and a bullet cut through the clothes of a youth named Brown, but he was not hurt, the sheriff said.

Clower, who resided in Hampton, but worked in Atlanta, and several friends were riding in a car when they met a group of negroes going home from a party near the Clayton-Spalding county line several miles from Griffin. An argument developed and as a result a negro man drew a pistol and fired several times at the white youths. Clower died before he could be taken to the Griffin hospital. Robertson's wounds were treated there.

Sheriff Adamson arrested seven negroes, including two girls, who are held in Jonesboro as material witnesses.

The Clayton officer said the name of the killer was known and a search is being conducted for him.

Clower was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Clower, of Hampton, and is also survived by a brother, Raymond Clower, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Conkle, of Lovejoy, Ga., and T. M. Clower, of Hampton, Ga. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Lovejoy Methodist church and interment will be in the Hampton cemetery.

Religious Zealot Is Crucified in Love Hoax

Soon after R. J. Riggs (shown in hospital bed) was found nailed to this cross (right) near High Point, N. C., officers quoted him as confessing he had his young son crucify him in hopes of regaining the affections of his estranged wife. Nails were driven through his hands and feet but his injuries were not serious. Police described Riggs, a filling station operator, as a "religious fanatic." Associated Press photos.

Capitol Feature Film And Stage Show Please

A western picture that is different from the usual "run of the mill' and a sparkling stage show unite this week to provide Capitol patrons with a well rounded and delightfully entertaining bill.

George O'Brien is the star of the picture, "The Cowboy Millionaire," and he is ably supported by Edgar Kennedy and Alden Chase. O'Brien is cast as a cow-boy guide on a dude ranch in Arizona. He falls in love with an English heiress who is stopping briefly at the ranch.

He and his pal own a mining claim and when O'Brien goes to inspect the property the girl returns to England. The cow-boy guide finds that he is the owner of an immensely wealthy strike and when he returns to the ranch with the good tidings he discovers that his girl has gone and that his pal likewise has left to accept an offer far below the property's value.

There follows an exciting trip while O'Brien works against time to stop his pal from disposing of the property and then goes to England to seek the girl he loves. Needless to say, he encounters many exciting obstacles en route.

The stage show is entitled "Mad Cap Review" and presents a galaxy of stars which include Hoke Gunning, comedian, and his two stooges; Trudy Palmer, southern blues singer; Beebe Davis, dancer; the Loring Sisters in a novelty skit, and Petite Josephine in an unusually good acrobatic performance. Gunning is considered by many who see him to be Ben Blue's only rival in comedy.

Melvin Heuter and his Show Boat orchestra from Indianapolis, are the guest artists of Enrico Leide, Capitol musical director. The special overture is delightfully presented.

BODY OF U. S. SAILOR FOUND AT LE HAVRE

LE HAVRE, France, June 2.—(UP)—The body of an American sailor, William Dempster, whose parents live in Birmingham, Ala., was found on the docks here today. He was a seaman on the American steamer McKeesport. Police concluded he fell overboard when his ship stopped here between May 21 and 25.

HIGH COURT'S POWER ASSAILED BY NORRIS

NRA Ruling Held Illustration of 'Government By Injunction.'

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Power of the courts to hold laws unconstitutional today prompted Senator George Norris to describe American government as "a government by injunction."

The man who fathered one of the 22 constitutional amendments — the 21st, abolishing "lame-duck" sessions of congress—thinks the courts should not be able to invalidate legislation. But the republican independent from Nebraska doesn't believe anything can be done about a constitutional amendment to change the situation in this congress.

"This is the only civilized country in the world," Norris said in an interview, "in which a law passed by the parliament and approved by the executive can be overruled by a supreme court.

"I'm not criticizing the court in any of the decisions it has made, but it does illustrate that we are a government by injunction.

"Any judge can issue an injunction and prevent the enforcement of any law. This can hold up a law until the case long afterwards reaches the supreme court. If we are going to continue with a system by which the courts can declare laws unconstitutional, there ought to be a way by which decisions could be rendered by the supreme court in a very short time."

PETE DESJARDINS, winner of many U. S. and Olympic diving titles, says: "Divers and swimmers like a mild cigarette that won't get their wind or upset their nerves. That's why I prefer Camels—they never get my wind or jangle my nerves."

Read these reports from star athletes approving Camels

When athletes agree upon one cigarette, its mildness is placed beyond question. For they must be sure about mildness!

Pete Desjardins says: "Camels are so mild that I can smoke as many as I like and still keep my wind in perfect condition."

Pepper Martin, fleet-footed St. Louis Cardinal, says: "Camels are mild—don't cut down on my speed or wind." And Pepper is backed by Leo Sexton, Olympic shot-put record holder; Craig Wood, the golf star; Reggie McNamara, the "bike" racer; Susan Vilas, of swimming fame—to name only a few of the outstanding athletes who say they smoke Camels all they please, without disturbing their wind or nerves.

More enjoyment for you in this mild cigarette!

You'll find you can smoke Camels all you want! They are gentle on the throat. And athletes say that Camel's costlier tobaccos don't tire their taste—don't upset their nerves or get their "wind."

IT'S JUST AS IMPORTANT TO YOU to keep "in condition" as it is to any champion. Smoke Camels all you wish. Athletes say Camels never upset the nerves, never get the wind.

SO MILD! YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

SIX HOMERS AID AS YANKS MAUL RED SOX, 7 TO 2

Dickey Socks Two; Ruffing Wins 4th Straight; Chisox Beaten.

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—The Yankees took a long look at the Sunday crowd in the bleachers today and began popping home runs out among the fans to gain a 7-to-2 victory over the Red Sox in the series final and retain their hold on the American league lead.

In all the Yanks accumulated six homers for all the earned runs they scored while Mel Almada belted one for Boston to deprive Charley (Red) Ruffing of a shutout. The six circuit swats made the greatest one-game total for any major league club this season and fell just one short of equaling the big league record.

Bill Dickey led the clouting spree with two of the boundary belts, bringing his season's total up to eight. The others came from the bats of Frank Crosetti, Ben Chapman, George Selkirk and Red Rolfe.

Ruffing, chalking up his fourth straight victory on the hill and his fifth of the season, granted only eight hits. For the first seven innings not a Boston player got to third and only Moe Berg managed to reach second.

THE ALEXANDERS IN NEW ENGLAND

Coach and Mrs. William A. Alexander were honeymooning today in New York and plan to go from there on a tour through New England, it was learned yesterday.

The popular and nationally-known head football coach at Georgia Tech was married Saturday morning at Tallulah Falls and the summer home home of Ben Sinclair, of Atlanta. The bride was one of Atlanta's most charming ladies, Mrs. Marie MacIntyre Scott, of Decatur.

The marriage had been rumored for some time. It was held in the presence of a close circle of friends and a few hours after Mr. and Mrs. Alexander departed for New York, taking the train Saturday afternoon at Cornelia. Both have a wide circle of friends here. On their return home the couple will be at home at 743 Penn avenue.

BREAK O'DAY!

By Ralph McGill

"You are going to the horse show," she said.

So they went.

He had been out to Harry's house the evening before. And then he had gone to the club. After that there had been a stop at Joe's.

He most decidedly did not feel like going to the horse show. Or anywhere, for that matter.

"Show horses," he said, "have given me a lot of trouble. Every time I bet on a horse to win he turns out to be a show horse. They can't have all my show horses in the show."

But they went to the horse show. His seat was in the stands where the sun shone on him. He felt terrible. He was in something of a daze. His head pounded. He looked upon the scene and saw as through a glass, darkly.

Suddenly he sat up convulsively. He closed his eyes and looked again.

"You said it was a horse show, didn't you, dear?" he asked his wife.

"Don't be silly," she said. "What did you think it was?"

"All right," he said. But he kept closing his eyes and looking.

All of a sudden, while he was just sitting there in the sun with his head pounding, the horses had gone away and two ostriches, with girls riding them, had come into the arena. That was when he sat up convulsively and closed his eyes and looked again.

They were still there. They were running around the ring and the girls were hitting the big birds and yipping at them. He looked around at the crowd and people looked perfectly normal. He supposed they were seeing horses, but for him they had changed to ostriches with girls riding them.

The sun was hot and he felt very faint.

"What do you think of them?" he asked his wife.

"Well," she said, "it's a novelty, but I like horses better."

"Then these aren't horses?" he asked weakly.

"Are you trying to be funny?" she asked, suspiciously.

"No," he said. "I guess not."

He took up a program and saw that one of the features was an ostrich race for the horse show. He didn't feel much better. The sun was hot and besides it had been something of a shock. He kept waiting. They had to pass by Joe's house on the way home. But he never will like ostriches again. And next time he goes to the horse show he will look at the program first. Especially when he has been to Joe's, to Harry's and to the club the evening before.

THE PENNANT BEE AND THE "BEE BOYS."

I keep hearing the pennant bee buzzing around. Largely because of the work of the "Bee Boys" on the ball club which is playing for our town.

There is a certain amount of luck in getting "Bee Boys" to come through. Any manager will tell you that much baseball. But there also must be some managerial ability. I have watched a lot of managers quite a few of them in our town, and Eddie Moore is the first one who seemed to be able to discover possibilities.

Most managers are afraid of them. Few managers are willing to take a chance with them. Until Eddie Moore came along, Larry Gilbert, down at New Orleans, was the only skipper with patience enough to develop them. Most managers we had had rode the "Bee Boys" with spurs.

Eddie Moore tossed the boys out there, told them they were good enough and started the season. He did this before the season began. He let at least three of his kids know they were on the ball club. They then devoted the time getting confidence and learning the game. And not in worrying about their job.

Eddie Moore has had some luck. It was almost a 50 to 1 shot that not all his rookies would come through. But Bud Thomas, Bobbie Durham, Dick McCaskill, Johnny Hill, Pinky James and Nig Lipscomb have come through in a style which stamps them as outstanding young prospects.

They have kept the ball club going while many of the veterans slumped. It can't all be luck. You may salute Eddie Moore for a nice job of work.

Ouch! There's that pennant bee again. Stung me that time. Right between the eyes.

THE BABE RELEASED.

Fast doings, up in Boston yesterday.

The Babe announced he would play no more for the Braves. At least not as long as Emil Fuchs was at the head of the club.

Judge Fuchs hurriedly left the park. The idea seems to be that he did some hurried consultation. The result was a late announcement that Babe Ruth was released outright and was a free agent. And that he, the Judge, would not retire.

It isn't at all shocking to find the Babe out of there. Somehow the idea of the Babe, who was a New York guy and nothing else, with the Braves never sat so well. He may never play any more major league baseball, his legs being what they are. The owners, while they belong to no Union, have a way of getting together.

But at that the people have the final voice. It may be that when Judge Fuchs awakes this morning he will find the fans giving him the old razzoo. And the old razzoo is not so pleasant.

He may find that the fans are staying away from his park with very great enthusiasm. In fact they may stay away with such complete abandon that the Judge will find he is going to retire from baseball after all. Such things have happened. The fans may retire the Babe.

The Judge's baseball record isn't one to cause people to cheer. And the fans in Boston do not love him for himself alone.

At any rate we'll see. The jury hasn't brought in the verdict as yet.

LEGS AND LEGS.

It was the late Wilbert Robinson, rated as the shrewdest judge of pitchers in the majors, who said he could tell an athlete by his legs. A man was, he said, no older or younger than his legs.

And it so happens that on the day when Ruth announced his intention to retire, Ruth was on the sidelines with a bad leg. The legs of Ruth had stood a great strain for a span of 20 years. The Babe is 42 and for 21 of those years he has been playing baseball. His legs are, in a manner of speaking, gone.

It so happens, however, that on the day Ruth announced his intention to quite the game, a news item came in from Orange, N. J., stating that William Tatum Tilden II had defeated George Lott for the international tennis singles.

Once more I just give you the thin legs of William Tilden as the greatest legs in sport. Bill Tilden is 42, pushing 43, and he has played tennis winter and summer for as many, or more, years than Ruth has played baseball. And tennis demands more leg work than an outfield position. Yet there is Tilden, still beating younger players.

I give you the Tilden legs as the greatest legs sport has known.

FIVE-RUN RALLY WINS FOR CARDS; GIANTS SHUT OUT

Collins Hits Homer With Bases Loaded; Dizzy Saves Game.

CHICAGO, June 2.—(AP)—A five-run ninth inning rally climaxed Jimmy Collins' homer with the bases loaded and some effective relief pitching by Dizzy Dean gave the St. Louis Cardinals a third straight victory over the Cubs, 6 to 5, today before a small Sunday crowd of 8.9[illegible].

Collins' blow came off Relief Pitcher Larry French's second pitch after Tex Carleton, who entered the ninth with a commanding 5-to-1 lead, had let one run in and filled the bases on singles by Pepper Martin, Charley Gelbert and Joe Medwick, bunched around a pass to Jack Rothrock.

McDonald Wins Shoot Trophy

Luther McDonald, the keen little junior skeeter, yesterday won the June trophy shoot at the West End Gun Club with a score of 50 2-3. The fraction represented a part of his handicap.

A. J. Orme, the champion runner-up, was second, one-third of a target behind little Luther. The shoot was well attended and received the usual fine handling of Secretary Davis and his aids.

Charles Pyron broke his first straight. H. J. Field also broke one. New shooters included Max Brandee, Clarence Hutchinson and H. L. Cooper.

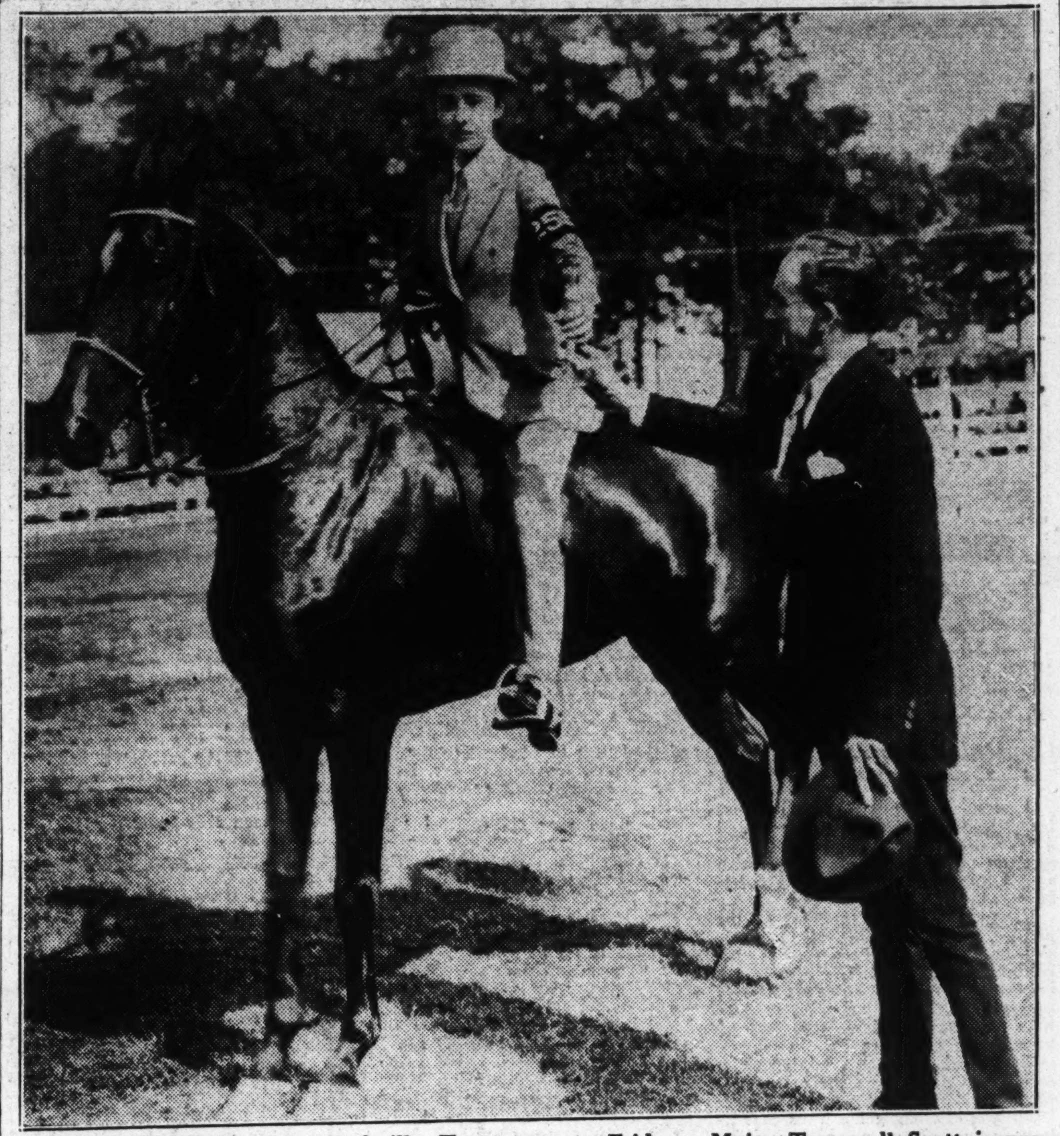

Other leading scores:

M. E. Harkins, 50; R. L. Zachry, 49 1-3; Charles Pyron, 49; Dr. Leroy Childs, 48 1-3; Harry Harkins, 47 2-3; Jack Troy, 47 1-3; R. J. Minehan, 45 1-3; C. L. Talley, 44 2-3; P. M. Nashville Girl Rides Winners

Miss Elsie Caldwell, of Nashville, Tenn., is shown here receiving the John M. Ogden trophy for winning the five-gaited harness and saddle horse class at the Atlanta horse show, with Feudist Blue Bonnet, owned by Maurice Weinberger, of Nashville, Tenn., on Friday. Major Trammell Scott is presenting the trophy. Miss Caldwell won in both Saturday and Sunday events. She won two firsts on Saturday, and Sunday she won the five-gaited championship with Feudist Blue Bonnet.

BOYCE, TERRELL PLAY THIS WEEK

Druid Hills golfers completed all second-round matches in the annual president's trophy tournament Sunday afternoon. The semi-finals and finals in all flights are scheduled to be played this week. Frank Boyce plays Bill Terrell in a feature match this week.

Jack Bothamley and Dr. George Fuller ended all square in the second flight and will play another 18-hole round today or Tuesday.

The results:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.

Frank Boyce beat Dr. L. M. White, 3-1.
Bill Terrell beat Jim Wilson, 2-1.
John Bothamley beat C. M. Bewden, 1 up.
J. O. Knight beat L. D. McMath, 4-3.

SECOND FLIGHT.

Henry Young beat Milton Vose, 2-1.
Joe Horacek beat Dr. C. W. Roberts, 1 up.
Jack Bothamley all square with Dr. George Fuller.
Dr. J. J. Clark beat Jim Smith, 3-1.

THIRD FLIGHT.

Dodge Mentzer beat Frank Nash, 2-1.
Dr. J. R. Childs beat Dr. S. T. Brown, 3-2.
Matt Harper beat Ray Menkee, 4-3, 27 holes.
Theo McCord beat Jesse Draper, 2-1.

Frank and Chick Ridley Beat Moore, Holditch.

In one of the closest matches of the year, Frank Ridley, city amateur champion, and Chick Ridley, Piedmont park professional, defeated Stanley Holditch and Berrien Moore Jr., 2-1, Sunday afternoon on the Piedmont park course.

It was another of the series of regular Sunday afternoon matches between two Piedmont park players and two outside stars.

Foursome 13 Under Par At East Lake.

Scoring 13 strokes under par, W. C. Caye, C. E. Weaver, L. E. Mock and B. Lee Smith won first prize Sunday afternoon on the No. 2 East Lake course with an aggregate 129.

Billy Street, Willie Callaway, E. D. Key and P. F. O'Brien won second place with 131.

T. Dobbs Jr., and B. F. Cameron for fourth place at 135.

HACKNEY MEETS MILLER TONIGHT

Honey Boy Hackney, the splendidly built New Jersey wrestler who uses the spectacular flying leg scissors, will go into the Key arena ring tonight for the purpose of shearing the wrestling wool of Sammy Miller, the Assyrian champion.

And Honey Boy, who is a honey of a wrestler, is apt to do just that to the delight of the fans, who like to see Miller in action but are always pulling for the other fellow to knock him for a row of brick apartment houses.

They feature tonight's program, staged by Roby and Bettis. It's a very promising feature. Hackney is one of the most colorful wrestlers appearing here.

A splendid semi-windup brings together Tiny Ruff, the ruffian who was disqualified last week for being too rough, and Otto Heinman, the giant German who bears an enviable record.

Tarzan Jordan, a long-established Atlanta favorite, and Totem Pole Anderson, the Alaskan, meet in a very attractive opener.

It's really an all-star card. Tickets are on sale at the Five Points Soda Company or may be reserved by calling Main 2539.

The Key arena is located at Fair street and Delta place. There is plenty of free parking space.

Feudist Blue Bonnet Is Five-Gaited Winner

Nashville Entry, Ridden Brilliantly By Elsie Caldwell, Tops Show; Jean Oliver Wins.

By Jack Troy.

Even the rain, which came with a majestic sweep, accompanied by thunder and lightning, as the last jumper was being shown in the ring, failed to put a damper on the sixth annual Atlanta horse show which closed yesterday afternoon at Fort McPherson.

To the imaginative mind this demonstration of the elements was something of a token. There had been brilliant weather all through the show. So the closing salvo was pardonable, for most of the spectators reached their cars.

The thrill which comes only once in a lifetime came to nattily attired Miss Elsie Caldwell, showing Maurice Weinberger's beautiful chestnut mare, Feudist Blue Bonnet, Nashville, Tenn., entry, in the five-gaited saddle horse stake and championship.

It was the most brilliant event in a show that ran the gamut of beauty, the spectacular and the perfection of horses and horsemanship.

Miss Caldwell, showing Feudist Blue Bonnet faultlessly for the second straight day, won the championship which amounted to best horse in the show in competition with the Atlanta stables of DeWitt King and John Ogden and the Chattanooga stable of T. B. Walker.

D. King's Tip Toe Thru The Daisies, shown by Bill Rogers, was second; Walker's Mary Medley was third and John Ogden's King's Idol was fourth.

MISS OLIVER WINS.

Ranking very high in the day's performances were the two victories of Miss Jean Oliver in the two children's events. Miss Oliver won two firsts with Cheer Leader, handsome chestnut gelding.

In the first event, children's horsemanship, style of riding, handling and control of mount only to count, Miss Oliver was superb. Cheer Leader led the cheers and Miss Oliver gave a winning performance. She was presented the Mary Trammell Scott trophy by Mrs. Arthur S. Wheeler.

Again, in the A. S. P. C. A. good hands event, it was strictly up to the rider. This competition was judged on "hands and seat," general management and control of mount. And again Cheer Leader led the cheers as Miss Oliver led the performances.

In each class Therese Fletcher was second, showing well on Light Foot in the children's horsemanship, and showing equally on Stormy Weather in the A. S. P. C. good hands event.

Boys and girls were judged separately in the children's horsemanship and George Palmer, showing Theodora, spirited bay mare, was the winner. Black Venus, picturesque black mare, shown by Lee Hopping Jr., was second.

BLACK VENUS FIRST.

Later on Lee Hopping Jr was to win a first place with Black Venus in the three-gaited saddle pony event. Trammell Scott's Southern Sue, shown by Bill Rogers, was second.

It became increasingly apparent as the final day of the show appeared in kaleidoscopic fashion that the singling out of features would be very difficult, indeed.

The sixth annual show simply was too good to be true. When any one event seemed particularly outstanding another came along just as good. And so it went.

DeWitt King's Brilliant Star, brilliant chestnut gelding, was given a championship ride by Jack Rogers in the three-gaited saddle horse stake and championship. John Ogden's Crimson Queen, ridden by Jack Rogers, was second and Frank Adair's Cheerful Charley, ridden by Mrs. Carl Ramspeck, was third.

John Ogden's showing in the fine harness class was outstanding. His entries, My Goodness and Daring Carlotta, were first and second respectively.

There was hardly a more attractive sight than the showing of Feudist Blue Bonnet, by Miss Caldwell, in this event. Miss Caldwell, wearing a blue picture hat and a blue organdie dress with flesh-colored corsage, presented an enduring picture as she drove the handsome chestnut mare around the show ring. Miss Caldwell was third-place winner.

In the road hack class, Berk Boy, shown by Mrs. Creed, was first, and Pathfinder, shown by Captain Boudinot, was second.

Talking about a little major, if anyone was, there was the performance of Pete Fletcher, 8 years old, in the pairs or saddle horses class, with Mrs. Ernest Kreher, of Tampa.

They'll be talking about the performance he gave on Kenmore's Edna May for days, weeks and months to

DURHAM TAKES FIRST GAME, 5-1; PELS WIN 2D, 2-1

Error Causes Thomas To Drop Second; Lineup Changed.

By Jimmy Jones.

HEINEMANN PARK, NEW ORLEANS, La., June 2.—In weather that smacked of South Africa, the Crackers made a double-barrelled defense of their lead here today, but came off even in the double-header played in sweltering temperatures.

The Crackers won the first game, 5-1, which Bobby Durham pitched and did a fine job, but dropped the second, 2-1, behind "Bud" Thomas, when the Pels pushed over a run in the fifth inning to break a 1-1 tie.

By splitting even, the Crackers lost a half game from their lead, since Memphis, now in second place, defeated Nashville, 4-2.

The Pelicans, returning home from a long road trip of their own, were given a chorus of mingled boos and cheers as they trotted on the field before an excellent Sunday crowd of more than 6,000.

RAZZ PELS.

The former outnumbered the latter as the first game progressed, for the crowd seemed to be out partially to give the Pelicans, particularly Eddie Morgan, who is having a terrible time trying to play third base, the old razzoo.

Durham should have had a shutout in that first game and deserved it for he escaped from more jams than the late Harry Houdini and Thurston put together. An error by Johnny Hill at third base gave the Pelicans their only run.

The stocky rookie gave the Pels just seven hits. Twice they had the bases full but couldn't score on him. They couldn't do a thing with Durham's curve ball who managed to get it across in the pinch every time. A good example came in the second inning when Gleeson doubled, Morgan and Rose walked to fill the bases with none out. Durham bore down and made Lee pop to Hooks and then made Chick Autry hit into a double play as the crescendo of boos floated loudly on the air.

DOES IT AGAIN.

He did the same thing to Autry again in the eighth after Morgan had doubled and Lee had beat out a hit to short. Durham had six strikeouts and it was his third victory of the season.

Thomas pitched good ball in the second game and might have come out victorious also with good support. Buster Chatham let an infield ball hit by Jack Ward go through him in the fifth and this later proved to be the winning run. Two were out at the time. Then Boss was walked purposely and Weatherly singled to center to score Ward.

Manager Eddie Moore changed his lineup around somewhat in the first game with James leading off and Lipscomb hitting clean-up, benching Oana. The combination worked well enough for the Crackers lost no time in putting the game away.

SCORE IN FIRST.

They put two runs across in the first inning when James and Hill

Ruth, in Row With Owner, Given Unconditional Release

'DID ME WRONG,' BAMBINO SAYS OF EMIL FUCHS

Action Comes Few Hours After Voluntary Retirement Asked.

By Bill King.

BOSTON, June 2.—(AP)—Babe Ruth was given his unconditional release tonight by Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, a few hours after he had announced his intention of going on the voluntary retired list.

The slow burning bomb that has had the baseball world going around with its fingers in its ears since the season started let go this afternoon when Ruth told his teammates and then the baseball writers he was through.

Tonight Fuchs, after several hours of seclusion, came out with the announcement that removed baseball's aged and ailing idol from the club's roster.

Fuchs' statement said: "I have given Ruth his unconditional release. Accompanying it was a letter to him, the outgrowth of my conversation with Manager McKechnie."

The contents of the letter were not made public.

INTENDED TO QUIT.

The mighty slugger, sidelined with a knee injury, first told his Boston Braves team-mates that he intended to quit, at least for 60 days, and, when they took to the field against the New York Giants, he notified baseball writers to meet him in the clubhouse after the game.

"I hate to tell you boys this," Ruth said to the writers, "but I can't get along with Fuchs and I have decided to go on the voluntary retired list.

"I like the Braves players and have nothing but the highest regard for Manager Bill McKechnie but I will never play another game for the club as long as Fuchs remains as its head. He double-crossed me.

"I called him last night and told him I wanted to go to New York to attend the reception that will be held in honor of the French liner Normandie when it docks there Tuesday. The knee I injured in Cincinnati is still bad and it will not permit me to play until Thursday at least.

WON'T TAKE IT.

"But Fuchs refused me permission and ordered me to be in uniform Tuesday. I see no reason why he denied me permission to go to New York, and since I've got all the money I'll ever need, I am not going to accept such treatment.

"When I knocked out those three homers in Pittsburgh, I thought I was back in shape but that Cincinnati injury has put me away back. I am going to New York tomorrow but I don't know what I am going to do from then on. I don't want to get out of baseball but I will never play another game for the Braves as long as Fuchs remains."

The Babe refused to give any details of the alleged double-cross, rumors of which have been racing around the major league circuits for weeks, and tried to side-track such questions by replying "I can't get along with Fuchs."

Ruth said that he was signed to two Braves contracts, the usual player's, believed to call for a $25,000 salary, and a civil one that covered his position as second vice president of the club. The latter contract promised him an additional salary of $5,000 for his executive services and guaranteed him a certain percentage of the Braves' gate receipts.

BREACH WIDENED.

It has been known that Ruth and Fuchs have been at odds for some time. Impeccable sources have intimated that their breach started when Ruth failed to get his cut out of the Braves' spring training season receipts, which amounted to about $50,000.

After Fuchs learned of Ruth's decision to end, for a time at least, his spectacular 21-year career, he told intimates that he, too, was willing to quit the Braves.

"Bill McKechnie and I have come to certain conclusions about the Braves," he said, "and I would gladly step out this minute if I was assured that some reliable sportsman would take over the club, protect the small stockholders and refuse to sell our best players."

Early last month it became known that Charles F. Adams, vice president and controlling stockholder of the Braves, had served notice on Fuchs that the latter would either pick up the stock he is holding as collateral for a large loan and purchase all Adams' holdings at a bargain price or get out of the club's affairs without further ado.

Adams, owner of the two Boston hockey clubs, dominating figure in the new $1,500,000 Suffolk Downs race track and the head of a huge grocery chain, set August 1 as the deadline in his ultimatum to the harassed Fuchs, who has been head of the Braves since 1925.

Released

The Mighty Bambino asked to be placed on the voluntary retired list yesterday after the smoldering flames of a feud between himself and the Braves' owner were fanned anew when the star was refused permission to take a couple days off while out with a knee injury. Owner Fuchs' answer was in the form of an unconditional release and a personal note to the Babe.

WEBER OFFERS LADIES' NIGHT ON WEDNESDAY

Joe Cox Faces Dick Raines in Main Event.

With the Crackers out of town for the week, there will still be a ladies' night at the ball park. On Wednesday night Henry Weber will present his weekly wrestling card, including six major league heavyweights, and it will be ladies' night.

"I have been going to the Cracker games," he said yesterday, "and I see how the ladies like to witness the games. So I am going to have a ladies' night Wednesday and will admit any lady free who is accompanied by a paid escort. This applies to ringside seats or to any seats in the stands."

Weber offers Joe Cox, a tough hombre, who is known also as "Red Demon," in the main event, with Dick Raines as his opponent. Cox is a big, powerful fellow with a lot of speed and one who produces lots of action. Raines, a French-Canadian, is clever and as fast as Cox.

It should be a closely contested bout as there is no great difference, if any, in the rival abilities of the two men. Both weigh well over 200 pounds.

They will meet in a best-two-out-of-three-falls match with a 90-minute time limit.

It is very fitting that on ladies' night the handsome Paul Harper, sensational escape artist from arm locks, should appear on the card. The Texan meets Roland Kirchmeyer, a prime favorite here, in the semi-windup match.

This match will be an hour-limit affair with the best-two-out-of-three-falls feature tied with it.

In the opening 30-minute bout Chief Chewaki, "dat ole debbil," will positively appear. A wreck prevented him from appearing last week, delaying his arrival. This week he meets Marshall Blackstock. And that is a pair for you. Both are tough.

Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters.

NASHVILLE ENTRY IS SHOW WINNER

come. Mrs. Kreher was brilliant on Peavine's Highland Charm. They were simply perfect together. This picturesque team took first place with Mocotan, owned by James D. Henry, and entry, second.

Speaking of majesty of performance, and it certainly isn't out of place, there was the victory of popular Sis Franke, daughter of Major Gus Franke, of Auburn, in the touch and out event. By sheer horsemanship alone was Sis able to keep her seat when Tiger Lily knocked over the last hurdle. She stayed on, however, and went on to win. It was all to the good and Sis, a charming sportswoman, won over Major Franke, who was second on Frank.

Mae West, the popular black mare of the Atlanta horse show team, was ridden to victory by Miss Pattie Phelps, daughter of Lieutenant Phelps, in the A. S. P. C. A. horsemanship event. Jimmy Stratton, a great little fellow who has been jumping less than a month and who was trained by Sergeant Gus Davis, won second place on Tony and fourth place on Mary Brown. Amita, ridden by Mary Dinsmore, of Fort Benning, was third.

THE GREAT WORTHY.

Governor Talmadge's majestic chestnut gelding, The Great Worthy, was driven to a first place by Fenton Dye, in the roadster class. This was a spectacular class, with four entries circling the ring slowly at first and then at top speed. The Dye family was one, two, three, with H. Dye Sr., driving Major, second, and Anne Worthy, driven by Tom Dye, third.

Young Jimmy Stratton was the last entry to show in the championship jumping, which was won in brilliant fashion by Major Thomas, of the Fort Benning team. There was thunder and lightning and a general darkening of skies. Everybody was pulling for the youngster to give another fine performance but the odds were against him. His mount kicked over the first hurdle as spectators started scurrying for cars and cover or both.

Sis Franke won a fourth place in the closing event.

Tony and Captain Wing were given a rousing send-off in their last ride together, but Tony wasn't himself. He seemed to know that time had come for parting. And so Tony was a bit too high-strung.

AUBURN TEAM GOOD.

One of the brilliant features of the annual show was the performance of the Auburn team, which carried off an abundance of honors. Major Franke has done a great job at Auburn.

Officials of the Atlanta Horse Show Association were highly pleased over the success of the show, which was the best ever held. It was the best from the standpoint of entries, attendance and everything else.

The judges, George Gwynn, of Danville, and Colonel Herbert E. Mann, United States cavalry, were splendid. The efficiency of the Fort McPherson officers and attendants was something to marvel at.

It's all over until another year but the horse show officials—Herbert D. Oliver, president; Trammell Scott, vice president; Major Reese M. Howell, executive manager; Theodore Goulsby, treasurer, and Walter T. Candler, secretary—have a real mark to aim at next year.

It's Major Howell's last Atlanta show, however, since he is being transferred to another post this month. He has been a splendid manager and Atlantans regret he must leave.

Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area and chairman of the executive committee of the horse show, expressed the belief it was one of the finest horse shows he had ever witnessed.

Southern League

BARONS 7-3; SMOKIES 4-4.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 2.—Birmingham staged two seventh-inning rallies today and one of them produced a victory but the other fell a run short of a tie as the Barons split a doubleheader with Knoxville. A five-run rally in the seventh gave the Barons the first game, 7 to 4, a two-run rally in the seventh lacked a run of tying the Smokies' previous lead.

CRACKERS

singled and Lipscomb walloped a triple to deep left center to score them both.

Another came in the third when Lipscomb reached first on Autry's error, advanced to third on Manager Moore's single to right and scored as Chatham forced Moore at second. The latter did a good piece of base running in taking Ward out of the play and keeping him from making it a double.

The last two runs came in the eighth when the Crackers had a big inning and pounded big Al Milnar out of there. Hill opened with a double and Sheriff Harris sacrificed him to third. Lipscomb hit the first pitched ball for a single to right, scoring Hill. Hooks came through with another single to right, sending Lipscomb to third and then Zuber replaced Milnar in the box.

Eddie Moore greeted the newcomer with a squeeze bunt, Lipscomb scoring when Zuber became rattled and threw the ball against the grandstand.

The Pelicans, it seemed, could do everything with Durham but score on him. They came all around it, but they got their only run in the seventh.

PELS SCORE.

Milnar led off with a triple over James' head, in center, which he almost caught. Durham bore down, making Ward pop up, and fanning Boss, but when Hill bobbled Weatherly's easy grounder for what should have been the third out, Milnar scored.

Twice the first game had to be stopped to clear the field of pop bottles. Some of the fans became incensed at decisions by the umpires, Buck Campbell and Eddie Ainsmith.

Thomas, seeking his ninth victory, pitched nice ball in the seven-inning affair. He was opposed at the start by Del Wetherell, but the latter had to retire when "Pinky" James' single through the box, in the fourth, unjointed one of the fingers on his pitching hand. Bill Thomas—no relation to our "Bud," relieved him and pitched creditable ball, getting credit for the victory.

CRACKERS SCORE.

The Crackers got their run in the fourth when Chatham reached second as Weatherly and Gleeson lost his high fly in the sun after two were out.

Thomas, the Cracker pitcher, rapped one at Eddie Morgan, catching that worthy flatfooted and Chatham scored as the crowd booed Morgan some more. James then singled and Wetherell was hurt.

The Pelicans' first score came in the third on Helf's single, Wetherell's sacrifice and Boss' single.

Oana warmed the bench in the first game, but got in for a few innings in the second, Moore coming out and James going to left.

The teams have an off day tomorrow, but will resume the series with a single game Tuesday. Harry Kelley is due to work for the Crackers on that day, with Bill Schmidt working Wednesday and Jim Lindsey opening the series in Birmingham Thursday.

TILDEN DEFEATS LOTT FOR TITLE

ORANGE, N. J., June 2—(AP)—William T. Tilden, 42 years old, but still in high form, administered an 8-6, 6-1, 62 trouncing to George M. Lott Jr., today at the Orange Lawn tennis club to win the American Singles championship of the International Players Association.

Lott led big Bill 5-4 in the first set, and then dropped the tenth game to make it five all. He won in the eleventh, dropped the twelfth, and then Tilden, flashing his old form, took the next two games to win the set.

Tilden had things all his own way in the second and third sets.

Tilden won from Bruce Barnes of St. Louis, in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3 in the semi-finals yesterday while Lott easily eliminated Dobert Ramillon, young French star, making his American debut in the tournament.

RELIEF BURDEN SHOWS DECLINE DURING APRIL

Georgia Decrease of 1.4 Pct. Compares With National Average of 3.6.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—A decline in the nation's relief burden during the first weeks of spring today was reported by Harry L. Hopkins.

Figures for Georgia relief showed a decrease of 1.4 per cent in the number of families on relief in that state. The announcement said 73,948 families were helped in April as compared with 74,966 in March.

March expenditures in Georgia were $3,159,018 and in April, $2,987,820, a decrease of 5.4 per cent.

The relief administrator said the number of families on relief rolls during April was 3.6 per cent below the March figure.

The April total was given as 4,260,423 families, as compared to 4,419,600 in March.

Despite this drop, emergency relief costs gained nearly one per cent between the two months. The April cost was $189,295,204, against $188,049,481 for March.

Leading the parade of states in percentage decreases was New Mexico, where relief families dropped from 28,882 in March to 22,916 in April—a drop of 20.7 per cent.

Mississippi, with 51,054 families on relief in March and 42,331 in April, was second, with a decrease of 17.1 per cent. Other states to show relief declines greater than 10 per cent were South Carolina, with 52,760 families in March and 46,187 in April, a decrease of 12.4 per cent; Texas, with 229,076 families in March and 203,932 in April, a drop of 11 per cent, and Oklahoma, with 136,090 in March and 122,332 in April, a decrease of 10.1 per cent.

Ten states showed gains in families on relief.

They were Alabama, 8.3 per cent; Virginia, 5 per cent; New Hampshire, 4.8 per cent; Maine, 3.7 per cent; Massachusetts, 3.3 per cent; Tennessee, 2.3 per cent; Kentucky, 2 per cent; Louisiana, 1.6 per cent; Idaho, 0.09 per cent and North Carolina, 0.6 per cent.

New York state, with the greatest number of families on relief, showed a decrease from 483,685 in March to 461,200 in April, a drop of 4.6 per cent.

Pennsylvania's relief families decreased from 403,667 to 399,636 or 1 per cent in the month; Illinois' from 321,001 to 313,960, or 2.2 per cent, and California's from 198,338 to 191,199 or 3.6 per cent.

BUST OF SUTTON IS GIVEN LIBRARY BY STUDENTS HERE

Purchased by the nickels and dimes of the school children of Atlanta, a life-sized bust of Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, was dedicated yesterday afternoon at ceremonies held at Wesley Memorial church, and was then presented to Miss Jessie Hopkins, librarian, to be placed in the children's room of the Carnegie library as soon as the addition is completed.

The gathering of the contributions was sponsored by the Presidents' Club of the Atlanta Council of Parents and Teachers. Members of the committee included Mrs. D. R. Longino, council president; Mrs. E. H. LeVert Jr., Moreland president; Mrs. S. B. Satterfield, Home Park president; Mrs. J. J. Cerniglia, James L. Key president; Mrs. Georgia I. Simmons, Joe Brown Junior High president; Mrs. J. G. Harrison, Tech High president, and Mrs. D. A. Carson, president of the Presidents' Club.

Girls' High orchestra played the prelude and the processional was composed of members of each elementary and junior high school. The greeting was delivered by Mrs. Carson and the introduction of platform guests was made by Mrs. Longino. Speakers included D. M. Therrell, who traced the history of the Atlanta school system, and Kendall Weisiger.

Anne Brown and Mack Henderson unveiled the bust and the presentation was made by Dorothy Bradford. Dr. Sutton, likewise, made a brief talk.

'Crackers,' 'Barons' Split Twin Bill

Atlanta's Black Crackers split a double-header with the Black Barons, losing the first 5 to 4, and taking the second 5 to 1. The second game went only four innings, being called because of the municipal curfew law.

The two teams will clash again at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Ponce de Leon park. Three thousand, five hundred fans were present Sunday for the twin bill.

Lindsey Is After 20 Victories

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 2.—Big Jim Lindsey, who won two games for the Crackers last week, has served notice that he is "right" and that he is out to equal Harry Kelley in the number of victories.

"I'm ready to go now and I want to pitch as often as I can —twice a week at least—and I don't mind relieving," Jim stated.

Lindsey, despite his late start figures he is good for 20 victories this season including the Shaughnessey play-off. He wishes that he could have started sooner but understands Eddie Moore's predicament as regarding the class rule. Lindsey did not go on the roster until May 5 but has pitched good ball since then, winning four and losing only 1. He figures at 35 he is good for two or three more years as a winner then he will quit.

All the Cracker pitchers, rookies included are going good. It is the outfield where first Paul Easterling, then Henry Oana and Sheriff Harris fell way below .300 that is worrying Moore. Unless the latter two start hitting, Moore may have to take definite steps out there. At present he is filling in himself along with James. Today Moore was taken ill from the heat and had to retire from the second game.

PRESBYTERIAN SUPPORT AGAINST WAR SOUGHT

Issue of Re-entry Into Federal Council Will Be Urged Today.

MONTREAT, N. C., June 2.—(AP) Trial of Mr. Average Church Member by an ecclesiastical jury and a sermon by Dr. Henry H. Sweets, the moderator, occupied the more than 300 commissioners to the seventy-fifth general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church today on the eve of the business sessions to be resumed tomorrow.

Mr. Average Church Member was convicted by a jury of ministers of "persistently violating the Sabbath day, but the conviction carried a recommendation of mercy. He was sentenced by Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of Marietta, Ga., retiring moderator and judge of the United States court of appeals, to indefinite probation to "try himself at the court of his own conscience."

"The great purpose of education is not to make smart men and smart women, but to make good men and women," Dr. Sweets told the morning congregation. "Here is where religion should come into education. It is not possible to do this in America, yet the divorce of religion and education is more apparent than real."

Dr. Samuel M. Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, has been extended privileges of the floor as a special order tomorrow morning. He is expected to urge re-entry of the Southern Presbyterian church into the federal council—an issue which last year provoked the longest debate of the session.

A committee report will reach the floor tomorrow or Tuesday on an overture from the presbytery of Birmingham asking that the assembly instruct its board of Christian education "that we will support all conscientious objectors to war, and hereby ask in their behalf from all educational instituions requiring military training that such objectors be excused from classes in military instruction without loss in academic standing or official censure.

Remaining to be acted upon is an overture from the Synod of Georgia inviting the assembly to accept the invitation of the First Presbyterian church, of Augusta, to hold its next general assembly there in 1936.

COLLEGE OF LAW CLASS WILL HEAR SLATON ADDRESS

Former Governor John M. Slaton will deliver the commencement address at the graduating exercises of the Woodrow Wilson College of Law, to be held at the Woman's Club auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Love B. Harrell of Wesley Memorial church.

This is the second graduating class of the college. Numbered among the graduates are: Emmett L. Quinn, deputy sheriff of Fulton county; Sam P. Fleming, field representative for the state examining board in the secretary of state's office and Baxter Gentry, president of the Young Democratic club of DeKalb county.

Former Governor Clifford Walker, president of the college, will confer the bachelor of laws degree on the graduates after their presentation by Dean Joseph B. Kilbride.

WILLIAM M. BRISTOL PASSES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—William McLaren Bristol, 74, chairman of the board of the Bristol-Myers Company, makers of pharmaceutical preparations, died today following an illness of several weeks.

Bristol retired from the presidency of the firm in 1927 and since that time had devoted himself to philanthropic work.

S. FOSTER WHIPPLE, 84, DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

LOWELL, Mass., June 2.—(UP) S. Foster Whipple, 84, for 52 years advertising manager of the Lowell Courier-Citizen, died at a hospital here today of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile on Saturday.

He leaves a wife, the former Abigail W. Bryden, and three sons, Dara B., of Waltham, Herbert F., of Concord, and Sidney B., member of the staff of the United Press in New York.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday.

HOLDING COMPANY BILL IS DECLARED LEGAL

Senate Passage This Week Seen as F. D. R. Orders Prompt Action.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(UP)—President Roosevelt is determined to salvage the public utility holding company bill from the wreckage of the New Deal left by the supreme court's decision against NRA, congressional leaders said tonight.

The measure, which eventually would outlaw utility holding companies not considered an economic necessity, has been studied in the light of the NRA decision by New Deal attorneys and other lawyers who have passed the word to the White House that they believe the pending bill to be constitutional. Orders were given to push it through congress.

Chairman Burton K. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, of the senate interstate commerce committee in charge of the bill, spent two days explaining its provisions to members of the upper house. He expressed the belief tonight that it would pass the senate on Wednesday or Thursday with votes to spare.

Opposition to the proopsal is limited to groups of conservative democrats who have voted reluctantly for many of Mr. Roosevelt's reform measures and to republicans. Majority Leader Charles N. McNary, of Oregon, said he expected the bill to be disposed of soon.

He indicated the republicans did not plan to make an issue of the measure and that it would draw a substantial number of votes from his ranks.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Since I was a small child I have had a physical handicap that seems to make it impossible for me to secure employment. Last fall when the civil service examination for stenographers and typists was given I took it and made high grades. My name was put on the list but others who made much lower grades have been called while I have been left. This is very disheartening for I have worked and given satisfaction and know I could do it again. I live at my home and help my mother to the best of my ability. She is able to furnish me food, shelter and a few clothes—that's all. I look around me and realize everything in my life is at a standstill but time and I worry myself sick. Twenty-eight years old, unemployed, dissatisfied, longing to improve my education, but having no money, this is my predicament and it is a bad one. Wouldn't anybody in my fix be discouraged. Where is the sign of hope?

CYNTHIA.

Answer:

There is a famous painting by Watts, the English artist, in which he represents a woman sitting on top of the globe. She is blind. She holds in her hand a harp on which the strings are broken. In the background of the sombre-hued picture there is a star in the sky and Watts has called his painting Hope. This is one of the grandest things about human nature, that hope dies hard. A noted psychologist has said that the most striking single attribute of the normal mind is its ability to adjust itself to any inevitability. And another has said that no set of earthly circumstances can defeat a person who has set himself a reasonable goal, keeping it always in mind and working faithfully to reach it.

The average businessman prefers to have a secretary who is easy on the eyes, light on her feet and nimble with her fingers. But the majority of them who have young Circes in their offices complain lamentably that the girls can't read their own shorthand notes nor transcribe them with correct spelling. A competent secretary is the exception. A girl, even though she has a physical handicap, can use her unemployed hours for study and practice in shorthand and typing until she acquires such speed and accuracy that she is no longer a job hunter but in demand and sought after by prospective employers.

It is hard to buckle down to any task when not driven by necessity It is much easier to hold the head in the hands, cry about the handicap and let the waves of depression roll over one. Yet hard work will cure the depression and remove the cause of discouragement. In the words of Emerson: "If a man has good corn, or wood, or pigs to sell, or can make better chairs or knives, crucibles or church organs than anybody else, you will find a broad, hard-beaten road to his house, though it be in the woods."

BAY RUM POISONING IS BLAMED FOR DEATH

Bay rum poisoning caused the death of George A. Newport, 35, Coroner Paul Donehoo announced yesterday following an inquest conducted at the establishment of Harry G. Poole.

Newport, former shoe store manager, was found dead in bed Saturday night in his room at 203 Ivy street, N. E. The coroner's verdict said death resulted from alcoholism and poisoning from bay rum.

Culbertson on Contract

Card Analyst.
By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest

Solving a Playing Problem.

When a player holds some such combination as K 10 3 of a suit in one hand and nothing but small cards in the other, he need not worry about losing more than two tricks in that suit, provided he is not compelled to lead the suit. This statement can be substantiated to the satisfaction of any student who will take the trouble to deal out the cards, giving the remaining honors as he pleases to the two opposing sides.

It was an appreciation of this fact that permitted declarer in a recent duplicate game to be the only one to make his contract. The hand was:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K Q 6 ♡ K Q 5 4 3 ◇ K 8 2 ♣ 9 3
♠ 9 5 4 ♡ 8 ◇ 9 5 4 3 ♣ A 8 6 5 4	N W E S	♠ 8 3 ♡ A 7 6 2 ◇ Q J 10 6 ♣ Q J 2
	♠ A J 10 7 2 ♡ J 10 9 ◇ A 7 ♣ K 10 7

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♡	Pass
3♡	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is accurate enough. South's jack-ten-nine of hearts is almost adequate support, and he must certainly find another bid in response to his partner's takeout. The raise of hearts is a better choice than the bidding of any number of notrump or a rebid of the spades. When South bid three hearts, North rightly bid three spades, and South's rebid to game is perfectly obvious.

The Play.

Most players on the bidding made an opening lead of a spade, and the ordinary line of attack after winning the first spade in the closed hand, was to lead a heart and establish that suit before drawing trumps. This line of play proved a losing one, as East won with the ace, returning the club queen, and later was able to give his partner a ruff in hearts for the setting trick.

The safe line of play was to draw the adverse trumps and then establish the hearts. With the combination of clubs held, not enough leads could then be made to keep South from fulfilling his contract, and if the opponents could be held to one trick in the club suit, declarer would make five.

Hand For Tomorrow.

West, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ K 10 3 ♡ Q 5 3 ◇ A 7 6 ♣ Q J 4 2
	N W E S
	♠ A Q J 9 7 4 2 ♡ J 8 2 ◇ J 4 3 ♣ —

Can you make four spades from the South position after West has opened the king of clubs. Watch our article of tomorrow when the East-West hands will be given.

Sahara Yields Bodies of 2 Britons As 2 Frenchmen Are Rescued

ALGIERS, Algeria, June 2.—(AP)—A searching party found the bodies of an English woman and man on the scorching Sahara sands today and rescued two Frenchmen near death from thirst.

The woman, Mrs. Knight, the widow of an aviator who committed suicide recently at Agadez, French West Africa, had slashed her wrist, apparently in an attempt to end her torture from thirst and heat.

A party of four, including Mrs. Knight, Peyton, an English resident of Switzerland, and two Frenchmen, Kneebret and Chavexus, left Agadez by truck May 22 for Tamanrasset, Tawarek.

After the quartet were missing four days a searching party left Agadez for them. It found the Frenchmen on the fifth day of the search in a serious condition beside the truck near a dried-up river bed, 30 miles north of Ingessam.

When the Frenchmen were revived they said they had run out of both gas and water. A day later, despite the pleas of their companions, Mrs. Knight and Peyton left the shelter of the truck for the south, hoping to reach Ingessam and bring help.

The body of the woman was found five miles from the truck, her wrists slashed. She had left a note to English friends. Peyton's body was nearby. He had died of thirst.

MISS EARHART MAKES FIRST PARACHUTE LEAP

PROSPERTOWN, N. J., June 2.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart made her first parachute jump here today, in a device which naval and Department of Commerce officials said would be valuable for student instruction.

The famous woman flyer was one of several persons to try out the device.

Miss Earhart was raised to the top of a 115-foot tower and made the descent in a parachute which had been held open, guided to the ground by cables.

EAST ATLANTA BANKER, C. C. CRABILL, PASSES

Carleton Carson Crabill, 55, bank official and registered pharmacist, who was a widely known resident of East Atlanta, died yesterday afternoon at a private hospital following three major operations in the last 10 months.

Mr. Crabill owned the East Atlanta pharmacy and was vice president of the East Atlanta bank.

A native of Winchester, Va., he came to Georgia after obtaining his education. He purchased the drug store in 1908 and operated it until his death.

Well known in fraternal circles, he was a member of the E. A. Minor lodge, F. & A. M., the Yaarab temple of the Shrine, the Scottish Rite Masons, and of the Martha Brown Memorial church.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Betty Crabill; and a son, Billy Crabill. His residence was at 721 Flat Shoals avenue, S. E.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

THE LOVE FLIGHT

By JANE DIXON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Anne Austin, the family fortune wiped out in the crash, her mother dead and her father, a New York banker, a suicide, must choose between earning her way or marrying Craig Braden, gilded scion of a family which moves in the same social circles as had the Austins. A score of times she has held off his proposal. At the Bruno Beasleys' hectic house party she realizes that Craig can be put off no longer and pretends faintness. When he rushes off for brandy, she disappears and returns to New York. Even now Anne cannot understand herself—then she is candid with herself: she cannot think of marriage with this blase young man who has amused himself with the flutterings of Mayfair and Broadway butterflies. Gossip columns comment on the Braden-Austin rift and Craig sails for Vichy. Down to her last dime, Anne gets a job at Palm Beach as lady's maid with Mrs. Adolph Hoag, wife of the multi-millionaire sausage king, whose bizarre estate is called Bois Joli. This amazing fiery red-headed woman, whom all the servants address as madame, revels in tempestuous scenes. Anne takes the name of Anna Brent but madame calls her Fifi. The friendly attention to Anne of Carl Case, the Hoags' handsome young chauffeur, arouse the jealousy of Berta, a maid. Anne finds herself thinking much about Carl Case. Now go on with the story.

INSTALLMENT X.

Madame—"She was a dummox! Who bothers to read about fools? There's enough of 'em in the world without reading about 'em."

Anne—"The book is a best seller."

Madame—"Lordee me! The Prince of Wales maybe sent it to somebody going away on a steamer and now everybody's got to read it whether they like it or not. That'll do for today, Fifi. I'm so chuckful of book learning my head's buzzing like a buzz-saw."

Scarcely a day passed but that Anne saw Carl Case. Sometimes merely to pass him in the servants' hall. Occasionally he drove her to the shopping district or about the colony on errors for madame, but as often as she could she contrived to ride with one of the other chauffeurs. When she rode with Carl she was monosyllabic and so coldly formal that soon he withdrew into himself and addressed her only when necessity demanded.

Toward Anne, Berta continued sullen but she was no longer venomous. Apparently she felt the menace was past, that her man was safe, for the time being at least. Carl Case was certainly prudent about his affair with Berta, Anne thought. Never once had she seen him address the maid or even cast a guarded glance in Berta's direction. Yet Berta was forever making excuses to visit the garage, and when Carl was in her presence she hovered about him like a great clumsy beetle.

Anne had received her month's pay. The first money she ever had earned. Forty dollars. Beautiful crackly dollars. A hundred cents to each one and every cent a testimonial that she was no longer a parasitic growth on the scheme of living. She had earned her board, her keep, and these crackly dollars too. She put them away in her pocketbook. A dozen times that first day she took them out and gazed at them, unbelieving.

"I must go to the Phoenix Agency and pay the commission," Anne reminded herself. "I'll ask madame if I may have enough time from my work tomorrow to take the money to the agency."

Forty dollars! Once, only a little while ago, small change! Now, a goodly sum, worthy of respect!

Entering the Phoenix Agency, Anne saw that the bench where applicants waited was filled. A line of standees extended along the wall, to the other side of the room. Work, these days, was not an onerous necessity. It was a blessed privilege.

The wasplike woman, who had at first appeared an ogre and who had proved the veriest sort of a benefactor, was busy with her questions and her notes. She finished with the applicant at hand, adjusted her spectacles, scanned the bench and the waiting line. Anne, last to enter, was at the end. The woman beckoned to her.

"I came to pay my commission," Anne said, opening her purse, "and to thank you again for being so kind."

The woman nodded.

"I was expecting you," she said. "I was sure I could not be mistaken. You see, it's customary for our clients to withhold enough from the employee's wages to pay the commission. Otherwise we lose too much by employees' leaving the positions we get for them at the end of the month and 'forgetting' to pay us. I told Madame Hoag's secretary to pay you in full."

"But—why?"

The woman leaned back in her chair. Never had Anne seen a smile work such a transformation. Like lighting a crystal chandelier in a dreary room.

"My hobby is studying human nature as it passes my desk," the woman confided. "You've no idea what a hold it can take on you—peering into windows to see what's inside folks. Practice has made me quite an expert. It's a very useful hobby, too. Sometimes we are called on to supply persons for positions of trust and extra responsibility. I have an A list in my mind, the applicants I, personally, would bank on. When a position is open, I get in touch with whichever one of my As I think is best suited to the job."

"And am I an A?" Anne reflected the woman's smile.

"You are an A. How do you make out with Madame Hoag? To be honest, I was afraid you wouldn't last. That woman is a terror."

"Madame is not nearly such a terror as she wants you to believe," Anne said. "She booms a great deal, but actually she has a kind heart. Like most persons who acquire a great deal of money quickly, she has been imposed upon by those who are dishonest and greedy. She is keen. She knows what is going on. But she hasn't your hobby. She's never bothered to study human beings. She can't tell the sheep from the wolves, so she shoots them all, hoping to bring down a wolf occasionally."

"I see you have loyalty," the woman said approvingly. "In service, it's one of the most valuable of all traits."

"Not so much loyalty, perhaps, as gratitude," Anne said. Men had flattered her, times without number, idly, honestly. Women had paid her compliments, grudgingly, to curry favor, to make conversation. The woman at the desk was not flattering. She was commending. An ounce of commendation was worth all the flattery one could crowd into a lifetime.

"If Madame blows up as she sometimes does—discharges all the help except the maid Bats, and takes on an entire new staff—come to me. I'll place you, somehow."

"Thanks." Anne extended her hand. A friend was a friend, a handclasp an expression of friendship. I'll not forget. I'll be stopping in soon, blow or no blow—if I'm not bothering you—to let you know how I'm getting on and—well, just to say cherio.

"Any time. As often as you like. Next!"

The girl at the near end of the bench was up like a shot. There were shadows under her eyes, Anne noticed, and her lips were pale. Hungry.

Anne waited outside the door. If the girl was turned away, she, Anne would find some way to invite her to lunch. Five minutes passed. Anne opened the door ever so little, peered through. The girl was sitting at the desk, filling out a reference blank. She'd made it, then. A chance to work. One of the lucky ones.

Another night. As Anne stood by the window in her room in Bois Joli, she thought that the garden might be enchanted, it was so still.

There was no moon, but a million stars were in the sky and beyond the shrubbery screen, lights shone from the upper story of the garage.

"Carl." Her lips clung to the name. She wanted to be with Carl, skimming along the road in the blue car; cutting through the surf with the salt spray in their eyes; idling on the sand at Seabeach. All this time she had been holding herself frozen and aloft, all the time she had been cudgeling herself into disdain of him, she had wanted Carl. The whimsy in his eyes. The swing of his shoulders when he walked. The satire that tripped so readily from his tongue. The gay camaraderie.

She, Anne Austin, was actually languishing at a window for the sight of a chauffeur. She wanted to be out there, somewhere, with Carl Case. She was infatuated with him. It might even be that she loved him. No, not love. That was too absurd. Infatuation, born of loneliness and of propinquity. At any rate, there was no need, at the moment to fight against a fact so warm, so thrilling. She was safe enough, here in her room.

But suppose she did not remain in her room? Suppose she stole out, down the thickly padded stairs, along the dim halls—out into the garden. Nights like this were not made for sleep. They were made for youth, for star dust, for gardens. She turned, drew a dark coat over her shoulders, closed her door noiselessly behind her and flitted, like a shadow, toward the servants' entrance.

Once outside she felt safe enough. Even if some one should meet her she could easily explain that she had been restless and had come into the garden for a breath of air. She chose a path shaded by tall flowering shrubs, hoping it was not one of those forbidden to underlings. She was careful to make no sound. A gardener might be about, or a watchman.

Now the path veered sharply. Anne hesitated. Had she better turn back? Why should she? She went on. The path seemed to end, abruptly, in a taller clump of shrubbery. She was about to retrace her steps when a movement ahead, under the tall shrubs, caused her to change her decision. If there was a watchman or a gardener there she had better let him know she was no prowler but merely one of the servants enjoying the beauty of the night. She stepped from the path and stood out distinct in the starlit night.

"Anna!"

"Carl!"

Carl came to her. His hands were on her shoulders.

"Anna! Is this Anna, or is it her astral body?"

"Anna in person." She laughed low in her throat, thinking how strong his hands were, how firm their hold on her. "You gave me a fright. I thought I might have passed a trespass sign and be off limits."

"And there are scoffers who say that mind is not stronger than matter." He had her arm, leading her toward the bower of tall shrubs. "I've been sitting here on the stone bench under the oleanders where you waited while I brought you the book and the magazines."

"Why—why—I came straight here. Down that shaded path from the servants' entrance. It does seem strange—there are dozens of paths in the garden—"

"Anna!" He had her hand. Drew her down beside him on the stone bench. "What did I do to displease you?"

She must answer. Evasion would be weak, and futile.

"Please," she begged, "I'd rather you didn't ask."

"I've got to know." Her father had spoken to her in that tone, on the rare occasions when he had essayed the role of the stern parent.

JUST NUTS

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

Dr. Tadasu Misawa measured nearly a million Japanese children and concluded that the environmental conditions (food and living habits) were chiefly responsible for the small stature of the Japanese people.

The favored classes in Japan are practically the same height as similar classes in Europe or America. Japanese children born and reared in America are much taller than their Japanese ancestors. This is due to improved living conditions, especially food, and shows that environment, rather than race, is the determining factor in stature.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

INTERESTING ANIMALS.

I—Timber Wolves.

There was a time when wolves ranged through almost every part of the United States and Canada; but this is true no longer.

A Timber Wolf.

Timber wolves are seldom found nowadays except in the Rocky mountain region, and in heavy forest lands of Canada and northern parts of the United States.

Wolves are relatives of dogs, and are classed in the same general family. They have five toes on the front feet, and four toes on the hind feet. The same is the case with most dogs, though some hunting dogs have only four toes on the front feet.

Seven or eight cubs usually are born in each wolf litter. They begin to open their eyes a week after birth and should have them fully open by the ninth day. This is about the same as with puppies.

Timber wolves are feared by stock-raisers because they kill sheep, and sometimes calves. After the summer season is over, they tend to gather in packs; and are a danger to human beings as well as to live stock. War has been waged against them, and it has been successful in most parts. In the space of one year, more than 7,000 wolves were killed in three provinces of Canada—Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Even a very large, strong dog cannot stand against a full-grown and healthy timber wolf. E. L. Munson tells of a hunting trip he made "in the first snow of the season on the Big Sandy creek." With him he took nine wolf-hounds, each about the size of a wolf.

A jackrabbit led six of the hounds to give chase, but the hunter caught sight of a wolf and three of the dogs went after him. The wolf ran until he came to a bank, then turned to face the dogs. Striking quickly with his long, sharp teeth, the wolf brought down all of the dogs, then turned and bounded over the ridge to escape the hunter who was coming on with a rifle.

Timber wolves have been caught and tamed from time to time. They may do fairly good work when helping to pull a dog-sled; but it has been found that half-breed wolves are safer and easier to handle than those of full blood.

June Brides Keep Watchful Eye On Old Marriage Superstitions

By Sally Forth.

Have you a marriage superstition? June brides, and there are oodles of them, are going hand-in-hand with tradition and sentiment, but are keeping a careful and watchful eye on taking any chances on their wedding day. There are many age-old superstitions which June brides adhere to in every country on the globe. This month's brides are featured especially because, somehow, June has been accepted as the traditional month for brides. It was considered the most fortunate month among the Romans, the name being derived from and sacred to, the goddess Juno. And perhaps another victory for the month is that June naturally means romance, flowers, and a full moon sending it's rays down Lover's Lane.

Of course, the brides who desire to be lucky always comply with the well-known adage in wearing "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." Custom and convenience have, in a way, abolished the old superstition about the day of the week, although the following famous old rhyme guides many: "Monday for Health, Tuesday for Wealth, Wednesday the best day of all, Thursday for crosses, Friday for losses and Saturday, no luck at all."

Instances are known where the bride choosing the day in defiance of the old verse has met with prosperity. In that case Sally hopes that the belles who became brides on Saturday will have good luck. They are Mesdames Abner Calhoun, Crichton Callaway Jr., Linton Buchanan, Robert E. Suddath, Thomas Edward Bunn Jr., and were in the same order named Kathryn Jetton, Richard Ruth Randall, Margaret Moss, Elizabeth Williams and Margaret Andrews.

"Who changes the name and not the letter, marries for worse and not for better," is another tradition which not always rings true, as is "If married in Lent, you are sure to repent," the latter a warning no doubt to those who chose in defiance to proper custom. And here is a jolt. White is not traditional for the bride, as Love's color has always been blue. For that reason it is considered lucky for a bride. Yet not one of Sally's brides wear blue, except that "something." But never wear green! It's the color of the fairies and the evil spirits will get you.

And the wedding veil, all misty and tulle, in olden times was really intended to conceal a bride from evil spirits. The Anglo-Saxon bride's veil was a square piece of cloth and held by four men over her and her bridegroom to hide the blushes! And orange blossoms have always been favored as symbols of happiness and prosperity, the custom of wearing them having been brought from the orient to Europe by the Crusaders Myrtle is sometimes used as it means purity, and brides in ancient Rome wore a wreath of roses and myrtle, the rose being the symbol of love. A Grecian bride sometimes wears a wreath of hyacinths.

For a bride to see a blue sky or hear a bird sing on her wedding day is a good omen. Also she should greet her mother first, then her father, and never, never sign her name on her wedding day until she is a "Mrs." A bad omen is to try on the entire wedding ensemble before time to dress for the wedding, or to see the bridegroom until she meets him at the altar. And here's a tip to both. If they smile at each other as they meet at the altar it insures future happiness.

Of course, there's that popular superstition about a bride not rehearsing for her own wedding, one that Frances Starbuck had firmly resolved to observe if she ever decided to tread the orange blossoms trail. But when she mentioned it to her fiance, Charles Patton Jr., he promptly declared that he would not rehearse for their wedding on June 15 either. He was just not willing to take the risk. So Frances changed her mind, or rather she cancelled her superstition. She still clings, however, to a lucky omen, inasmuch as she will wear a dime in her shoe.

As the bride leaves her home on her way to the church she must re-enter by the same door and such is true at the church. Never break anything on your wedding day and upon changing your wedding dress for a traveling suit, remove all pins and toss them away, to keep the spirits away. And speaking of spirits, folklore tells us the custom of having all the bridesmaids dress alike, was that evil spirits might not be able to distinguish one from the other.

The traditional wedding cake, with all the "fixings" is a fixture at all weddings. The throwing of rice is an ancient custom which bespeaks fruitfulness and plenty. It's an ancient custom which asserts that evil spirits fear leather, therefore, the idea of throwing a shoe after a bride and bridegroom was intended to ward off danger. Platinum is in vogue now, but the plain gold ring is the symbol of perfect oneness or the endlessness of love. The diamond is regarded as a symbol of sun and universal fire and power, although the pearl has been deemed as an inspiration of love since Cleopatra's time.

It's customary, of course, for the honeymoon, and tradition tells us that it came from Teutonic times when the marriage festivities continued for a month and the couple and their friends drank metheg lin or honey.

You know, "three times a bridesmaid, never a bride," yet a popular girl may be chosen and many accept in spite of this rule but must then serve seven or nine times as a bridesmaid if she would dispel the superstition. So remember this if you are the lucky one who catches the bride's bouquet as she tosses it among you—which signifies you will be the first to be married.

Speaking of something borrowed, Caroline Crumley, Sally hears, may wear the exquisite lace veil which has been worn by several other brides. Her cousin, Mrs. Ott Alston, wore it first, the veil having been brought from Europe for her by the late Mrs. Maggie Berry McBurney, whose name Mrs. Alston bears. The second bride to wear the veil was the former May Bernie Alston, who is now Mrs. Fletcher Jordon, of Greenville, S. C. Then again Caroline may decide to wear the beautiful veil belonging to Mrs. William Barnett, of Jacksonville, Fla., the former Frances Boykin, who bought it in Europe.

When Margaret Moss married President James Buchanan's great nephew at an al fresco ceremony on Saturday, she carried an exquisite lace handkerchief which had been handmade by her mother, the late Mrs. B. M. Moss, who was Frances Adelaide Knott.

As for the bridegroom, he, too, is not without an atmosphere of superstition, but Sally will reveal those at a later date. But remember this, carry your bride across the threshold of your home to insure her safety and happiness and choose your best man with care—it's an old bridal custom and very important!

Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS

Davis' Birthday To Be Observed Today

A feature of unusual interest marking the 127th anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis, to be observed today by the Atlanta Chapter, U. D. C., will be the presentation to the chapter of an album by John B. Wilson, secretary of the state of Georgia.

This album contains the photographs of many Confederate officers, the first being of Jefferson Davis, autographed by Mr. Davis. The album was picked up by a Union soldier after the Battle of Seven Pines, May 31 and June 1, 1862, and was presumably the property of a Confederate officer. It was kept by this Union soldier until his death recently when his son took charge of it. He communicated with Mr. Wilson who after viewing the book and realizing its intrinsic value, bought it and is presenting it to the Atlanta chapter. Among the many photographs is one of Robert Toombs, said to be a most striking likeness.

The exercises will be held at the Chapter House, 826 Juniper street, N. E., at 2:30 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Forrest Kibler, presiding. Mrs. W. E. Beckham, chairham of commemorative days for the chapter, has arranged an interesting program with Judge Dave M. Parker making the principle address. Music will be furnished by the FERA orchestra and Miss Miriam Croft, accompanied by Mrs. Kurt Mueller, will sing a group of songs.

Others on the program are Mrs. Bun Wylie and Mrs. W. F. Dykes. Crosses of military service will be presented to Marion L. Boswell, William J. Redfern, Henry F. Lester Jr., James Augustus and Charles Howard Wood. A cross of honor for Robert L. Duncan, deceased, will be presented to his daughter, Mrs. Ann Duncan Woodside.

On Tuesday at 3:15 o'clock, Mrs. R. P. Sweeny, chairman of southern history in schools and colleges, will speak over WGST on Jefferson Davis.

For Miss Roberts And Mr. Ester.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Roberts will entertain Miss Marion Roberts and Everett Ester and members of the bridal party at a buffet supper Monday evening, June 3, after the wedding rehearsal at their home on Piedmont avenue. The bridal motif of green and white will be artistically carried out in the floral arrangement and decoration.

Invited are Misses Caribel Finger, Marion Roberts, Kathryn Sandusky, Carol Wimberly, Marjorie Dooley, Mesdames J. P. Sandusky, W. Clyde Roberts, Ross Kline, Fred Stover, J. M. Roberts, and Clarence Roberts, Everett Ester, Lofton Smith, Frank Barrett, W. Clyde Roberts, John Finger and J. M. Roberts.

Business Women To Sponsor Picnic At Dogwood Lodge

The recreation committee of the Business and Professional Women's Club will sponsor a picnic supper at Dogwood lodge, the country home of Sheriff Jake Hall, of Decatur, on Saturday afternoon.

Dogwood Lodge is located near Panthersville, nine miles southeast of Decatur. Mr. Hall has built a picturesque rock house, a two-room log cabin, a replica of early American architecture; a lily pool, bird houses, rock pathways bordered with flowers, an open air kitchen, and other rustic settings. The house is furnished with antiques, many of which are very valuable. During the past two years more than 10,000 visitors have registered in the guest book.

Reservations must be made with Miss Louise Gibbs, Raymond 6991, or Miss Sue Suttles, Dearborn 1438, by Friday. Cars will meet at the corner of Ponce de Leon and Highland avenues, leaving at 4 and 4:30 o'clock, providing transportation from that point for all who wish it. Special transportation will be provided for those unable to leave until later. Members of the recreation committee are Misses Dallas Dumas, Lucile Morgan, Lota Knighton and Maude Sewell, chairman. Miss Dumas will be toastmistress.

The meeting of the executive board will be held with Mrs. James E. Fuller, Atlantan hotel, Wednesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Flora S. Ozburn, president, will preside. At a recent meeting of the educational committee, Miss Ada Booth was chosen vice chairman and Miss Zula Stewart, secretary. Mrs. Kathleen Barlow is chairman.

Coates—Belote.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—(AP)—Mr and Mrs. R. J. Coates, of Macon, announce the marriage of their daughter, Martha, to M. Malvin Belote, of Atlanta, formerly of Valdosta, the wedding having been solemnized quietly at the bride's home at noon on Friday, Dr. J. E. Sammons officiating.

Mrs. Belote was graduated Monday from Wesleyan College. Mr. Belote attended Emory University, where he became a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is now connected with a tire concern in Atlanta.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

A Liquid Nail Polish That Goes On Easily and Is Smooth as Satin

By MIGNON.

I have had trouble with some liquid nail polishes because after they have been opened once or twice—even if they don't do it on first use—they get thick, sticky and are not at all the thin liquid necessary for a perfectly smooth polish. Now I have one that I have been trying out for six weeks and I can say that it has yet to disappoint me. I don't think it ever will while the formula remains the same.

There are all kinds of polishes, but often you can't talk a woman into using anything but a liquid polish. The reasons they give are that liquids are quicker and last longer and look brighter than almost any other kind. Perhaps they are right. It is all a matter of taste. But if you are a liquid-polish devotee here is a kind that you should know about.

The polish is quite inexpensive and it comes in six shades, from coral to ruby. I prefer pale colors. But you know the old story about the woman who was upbraided for kissing her cow—she simply remarked, "Well, everybody to his own taste." They are your finger nails and if you want to paint them purple that's up to you.

In using liquid nail polish I much prefer the very faint pink shade, because it gives the nails that healthy color that healthy hands have, and it isn't conspicuous.

If I told you how inexpensive it is you wouldn't believe me. I'll whisper this—it's less than 40 cents.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dawson Y. W. A.

The Willie T. Dawson Y. W. A. held the monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. T. S. Kerlin, at 1095 Stewart avenue, on Thursday. Mrs. Paul Bailey, city mission study chairman, gave a splendid talk on "Life's Duty." There were 15 members present with Mesdames Paul Bailey and Frank Mason as visitors.

BOY SWIMMER HURT AT GRANT PARK POOL

The first mishap of the swimming season occurred yesterday afternoon at Grant park swimming pool. James West, 12 years old, of 724 Lake avenue, was taken to Grady hospital for treatment for cuts and bruises of the face.

The child was going down the slide on his hands and knees when an unidentified person pushed a barrel in front of the slide. The boy struck the barrel with his head. His condition was not serious and he was discharged from the hospital after treatment.

Mrs. Ferrell Weds William G. Hodges At St. Mark Church

Mrs. Alta Everton Ferrell became the bride of William Gardner Hodges, of Spartanburg, S. C., at an impressive ceremony taking place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Mark church on Peachtree street. The ceremony was performed by Dr. T. Z. B. Everton, of Newnan, the bride's brother, assisted by Dr. J. W. Johnson, pastor of the church.

Miss Eda Bartholomew, the organist, rendered an appropriate musical program, preceding and during the ceremony. The bridal chorus from Lohengrin heralded the approach of the bridal party and Mendelssohn's wedding march was played for the recessional. The altar was banked with stately palms and ferns, and starred with massive white urns filled with white hydrangeas.

Mrs. Charles Daniels was matron of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in a becoming costume of pink chiffon, veiling pink taffeta, and worn with white accessories. A white straw picture hat and a shoulder spray of white roses and gardenias completed the ensemble. Oscar Bowers, of Spartanburg, acted as best man for Mr. Hodges.

The bride, a beautiful young woman, was gowned in yellow chiffon posed over yellow taffeta. The tight-fitting bodice introduced long, full sleeves, and an accordion-pleated ruffle edged the peplum of the blouse, as well as the neck and the sleeves. A brown velvet ribbon sash outlined the slender waistline and a hat of yellow rough straw was trimmed with yellow ribbon. A shoulder bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies and white accessories were worn by the attractive bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodges departed for a wedding trip to Virginia Beach, Washington, D. C., and New York city. Afterward, they will reside at the Franklin hotel, in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Yancey Everton, of Newnan, and a sister of Mrs. Russell Wilson, of Beloit, Wis.; Mrs. P. M. McMillan, of Tampa, Fla., and Dr. T. Z. B. Everton, of Newnan.

Out-of-town guests attending the marriage were former Governor and Mrs. Ibra Blackwood, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bowers, Dr. J. B. Branyon and Arthur Willis, of Spartanburg, S. C.; Mrs. J. B. Burk, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Mrs. T. V. B. Eberton, of Newnan.

Three-Act Comedy Will Be Given By St. Luke's Church Drama Guild

"The Whippersnappers," a three-act comedy by Howard Chenery, to be presented on June 5 and 6, by the Drama Guild of the Young People's Service League, in the parish hall of St. Luke's Episcopal church, will be an interesting occasion as well as an opportunity to observe the results of the work of an unusual dramatic group of young people. A well-balanced program of light opera and popular music will be furnished by an orchestra composed of well-known local musicians under the direction of William H. Crusselle.

The Drama Guild invites a group of friends to become patrons of each dramatic production, those serving in this capacity for the presentation of "The Whippersnappers" being Mr. and Mrs. William Cole Jones, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Budd, Judge and Mrs. Shepherd Bryan, General and Mrs. William R. Dashiell, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Goulding, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Ives, Mrs. Dan MacDougald, Mr. and Mrs. Rembert Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Selden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Parker, the Rev. and Mrs. John Moore Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Werner, Miss Marian Woodward, Miss Nelle Bowman, Mrs. R. C. Darby, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. DeSaussure, Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. John Lord, Nisbet, Mrs. Don A. Pardee, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Pringle, Henry B. Troutman, Mrs. George Warren and others.

The sale of tickets is open to the general public, and the performance will be followed by a reception in honor of the cast, which is composed of Misses Jane Goulding, Martha Tolbert, Cynthia Clegg, Dorothy Jean Alexander, Finley Garvin, Joseph Carlisle, William Sparrow, McCall Daniel, Jack Barton, Barney Dunlap, Sam Wilkins and Walter Tripod.

Dr. Floyd Brallier Lectures At Garden Center on June 7

Dr. Floyd Burton Brallier, well-known horticulturist, scientific breeder of small fruits and nature authority, will lecture at the Garden Center, located on the sixth floor of Rich's, Inc., Friday, June 7, at 3:30 o'clock; subject, "What to Do in the Garden Before Planting." Dr. Brallier was born in Richland, Iowa. After attending Walla Walla College in Washington and Emanuel Missionary College in Michigan he received his Ph. D. degree from the George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., in 1921. Dr. Brallier is a member of the Iowa and Tennessee State Florist Association and the Society of American Florist Association.

He is the garden editor of two of the south's leading newspapers, the Atlanta Journal and the Nashville Banner. Dr. Brallier has published many interesting books on nature and is a well-known nature lecturer. He was professor of pedagogy at Union College, Nebraska, in 1903. During the years 1904-06 he was educational superintendent of the Central Union conference of Seventh Day Adventists. He served as principal and business manager of the Iowa Industrial Academy from 1905 to 1907, after which he served as principal of the Hill Crest school farm, a training school for agricultural teachers. He held this position until 1917, at which time he became connected with the Nashville Agricultural Normal Institute at Madison, Tenn., where he still holds the professorship of agriculture and biology. At the present time he is also dean of the college. It is a privilege for the many of Dr. Brallier's readers to hear him speak at the Garden Center and meet him personally. Arrangements have been made for Dr. Brallier to tour the Atlanta gardens Friday morning, after which a luncheon will be given in his honor, preceding the lecture at the Garden Center.

Mrs. Samuel Inman's billboard exhibit at the Atlanta Flower Show is on display at the Garden Center. It is attractive and constructive, demonstrating the unsightliness of the billboard menace along the highways.

Chairmen at the Garden Center for the week of June 1: Saturday, Cascade Garden Club, Mrs. C. C. Berry, president, and committee; Monday, June 3, morning, Crape Myrtle Garden Club, Mrs. J. L. Burton, president, and committee; afternoon, West End Woman's Club, garden division, Mrs. Fred Allman and committee; Tuesday, West End Civic Club, Mrs. T. A. Slaughter, chairman; Wednesday, Peony Garden Club, Mrs. Claude McGinnis Sr., president, and committee; Thursday, Decatur Woman's Club, garden division, Mrs. Guy Hudson, president, and committee; Friday, West End Garden Club, Mrs. Meyers Loveless and committee; Saturday, June 8, morning, Primrose Garden Club, Mrs. Gilbert Beers, president, and Mrs. Edward Cawthorn, chairman; afternoon, Rosemary Garden Club, Miss Ladie Breedlove, president, and committee.

For Miss Roberts And Her Fiance.

Miss Marion Roberts and Everett Ester, their bridal party and close friends were entertained on Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. William Tellam at their home Spreading Oaks on Peachtree road. The tables were set out under the large trees in the yard. The bride's table being in the center, the smaller tables being grouped around. The color motif of yellow and white was artistically carried out in the arrangement of flowers and decorations.

Invited were Misses Kathryn Sandusky, Carol Wimberly, Marjorie Dooley, Mesdames J. M. Roberts, W. Clyde Roberts, Lloyd Davis, William Tellam, J. P. Sandusky, W. E. Parker, Harris Dodd, E. W. Kleen, the bride-elect and Frank Barrett, Lofton Smith, Clarence Roberts, Charlie Welch, J. M. Roberts, W. Clyde Roberts, Lloyd Davis, Everett Ester, William Tellam, W. E. Parker, Harris Dodd, W. Klein and Charles Gowing.

Dance Recital To Be Given.

A "Symphony of Rhythm," a dance recital employing more than 100 children, will be presented Monday and Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Decatur Girls' High school auditorium by the pupils of the Mary Woodruff Darsey School of Dancing. The children, ranging in age from 4 to 18 years, have been rehearsing for the recital for several weeks.

Opening with a gypsy camp scene, Mrs. Darsey's pupils will give an interpretation of the many gypsy folk dances, and will do "Sailors on Parade" and "Natoma's Dagger Dance."

G. S. C. W. Alumnae Honor Miss McMichael

The Georgia State College for Women Alumnae Club of Atlanta was entertained Saturday at the Atlanta Athletic Club with a bridge-tea. The hostesses were Miss Julia Mae Fillingim, chairman; Mrs. A. N. Anderson, Mrs. J. S. Short, Mrs. F. R. Yarbrough, Mrs. Frank Banks and Miss Leila Watson. Miss Virginia McMichael, the retiring president, was honor guest.

Miss Virginia McMichael, the president, presided for a short business meeting. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Thomas A. Moye, president; Miss Isabelle Manning, first vice president; Mrs. L. V. Ware, second vice president; Mrs. I. R. Waller, corresponding secretary; Miss Lucille Talley, recording secretary, and Mrs. John R. Burress, treasurer.

The president presented the retiring officers with bouquets. Mrs. J. S. Short was presented with a bouquet and highly praised for her success with the benefit bridge party in April.

Mrs. A. N. Anderson presented the president. Miss Virginia McMichael, with a silver vase from the Alumnae Club of Atlanta as a token of appreciation for the two successful years she has been president of the club. The educational fund has increased. The club has grown in numbers and under her supervision the club has been most successful.

Those present were Misses Eylon Anderson, Grace McCurdy, Virginia McMichael, Mazie Oakes, Leila Watson, Margaret Coyne, Frances Jackson, Edna Potts, Isabelle Manning, Lucile Talley, Helen Clyatt, Maude Hilley; Mesdames J. S. Short, C. D. Screven, F. R. Yarbrough, Frank L. Banks, A. N. Anderson, H. O. Burgess, Thomas A. Moye, Charles H. Battle, R. H. Milby, L. V. Ware, G. K. Hood, M. N. Oberdorfer Insurance Agency Moves to William-Oliver Building Offices

EXPANDED SERVICE IS MADE POSSIBLE IN NEW QUARTERS

Highly Specialized Organization Prepared to Fulfill Varied Needs of Its Policyholders.

The Oberdofer Insurance Agency, Inc., one of Atlanta's oldest general insurance organizations and among the oldest in the south, has obtained and is now occupying new and modern offices in the William-Oliver building at Five Points, where additional space permits the necessary expansion in its services to keep pace with the growth of the business.

The agency, which handles all lines of fire, casualty and surety insurance, moved to its new offices Friday from its former location at 12 Pryor street, S. W.

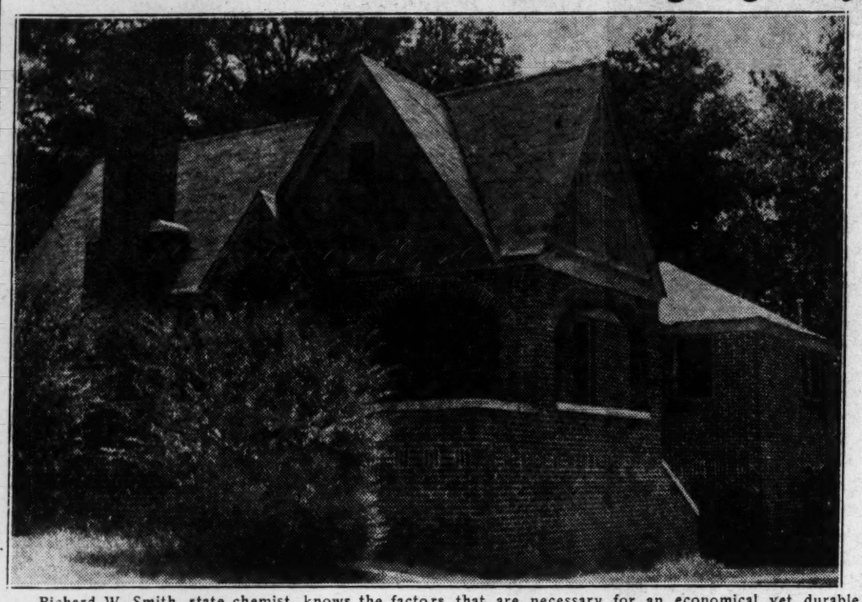

The Oberdofer Insurance Agency, Inc., is general agent for the Great American Indemnity Company and represents the following companies for miscellaneous lines of business: Great American Insurance Company, London Assurance Corporation, Commercial Union Fire Insurance Company, Sentinel Fire Insurance Company, First American Fire Insurance Company, National Union Fire Insurance Company, Massachusetts Bond & Insurance Company and Security Insurance Company.

The agency, according to Eugene Oberdofer, its president, specializes in the auditing the insurance affairs of its clients where this has seemed desirable, and through the specialists in charge of its various departments has been highly successful in effecting substantial savings in many instances, and in obtaining broader types of protection and similar advantages in others. This audit service is available without obligation or charge of any kind.

For several years the Oberdofer Insurance Agency, Inc., has placed at the disposal of its clients a convenient plan for payment of insurance premiums on a quarterly or monthly installment basis.

With the Oberdofer Insurance Agency, Inc., is affiliated the Fidelity Trust Company, through which are handled mortgage investment loans and rentals, real estate and property management. This company maintains offices adjacent to the new location of the Oberdofer Insurance Agency, Inc., in the William-Oliver building.

Success of Chas. N. Walker Roofing Co. Based on Strict Adherence to High Quality

Richard W. Smith, state chemist, knows the factors that are necessary for an economical yet durable roofing material. He recently selected Amalgamated Loctfast shingles for use in recovering the roof of his home at 41 Willow avenue, in Peachtree Hills, shown here. The roofing was bought from and applied by experts of the Chas. N. Walker Roofing Company, 141-43 Houston street, N. E.

The increasing popularity of its service and the high standard of quality of the products it handles is reflected clearly in the fact the Chas. N. Walker Roofing Company in 1934 enjoyed an increase of 55 per cent in business volume as compared with that of 1933.

Chas. N. Walker, president of the company which bears his name, reports his organization has experienced good business throughout the depression, and that the company is in a stronger position now than ever before in the quarter of a century since its establishment.

This fact, it is declared, is directly attributable to the company's firmly maintained policy of providing to its customers only the best materials obtainable. Ever since he started in business, Mr. Walker states he naturally has studied the roofing materials produced by all nationally recognized manufacturers, and that for many years the Chas. N. Walker Roofing Company has found the Amalgamated Roofing Company's Loctfast and Trulok the best for all reroofing purposes.

In this respect, Loctfast and Trulok shingles, wherever applied by Walker Roofing Company experts, serve as a reference and a recommendation to the owners of all near-by homes and buildings. These completed jobs, in innumerable cases, have brought additional orders to the Walker organization.

The company's roofing experts, Mr. Walker points out, will go anywhere in the southeast, adding that the company is in a position, financially, to take care of the largest jobs. The size of the job, however, does not matter, for large or small, it always has been the policy of the company to take care of its customers. Mr. Walker himself personally engineers and supervises every job, and sees to it that the customer gets the full benefit of the long experience of his workmen.

The Walker Roofing Company, it is stated, has received a number of large government contracts, and has enjoyed, as well, innumerable large contracts for private interests.

In addition to its roofing department, the company maintains expertly staffed departments for air conditioning of homes or business buildings, warm air heating, waterproofing and sheet metal work.

Mr. Walker invites inquiry on any prospective roofing job, and will be glad to supply estimates on roofing or reroofing, without cost or obligation.

AWTRY & LOWNDES BRIGHTEN ROOMS TO BUOY BEREAVED

Note of Cheerfulness in Funeral Establishment Helps to Dispel Spirit of Sadness in Death.

Awtry & Lowndes Company, funeral directors, in keeping with the progressive spirit of the times, recently have completed a program of interior decoration at their building at 21 Cain street, N. W., with a view to lifting the spirits of those saddened relatives and friends who are brought to their doors by the death of loved ones.

"The days are gone," declares J. W. Awtry, president of the company, "when the atmosphere of funeral establishments was one of gloom and depression—when within their doors there prevailed only sadness and grief and despair. This we have sought to obliterate, and to create in its place an air of cheerfulness and brightness, which will tend to dispel, in a measure, the sadness which attends death."

In this, Mr. Awtry and his associate, F. B. Lowndes, have succeeded well. In their planning of new decorations for the reception room, the family rooms, the chapel and other parts of their Cain street building, they have retained all of the quiet dignity which should surround bereavement, yet have added here and there just the necessary touch to buoy downcast spirits and to lend fresh courage to grieving ones in the presence of death.

Dogwood and apple blossoms, properly placed, and white coverings on the reception room furniture present to the visitor to the Awtry & Lowndes establishment a bright appearance and a cheerful, uplifting atmosphere. Similar effects, especially through the judicious use of modern, indirect lighting, have imparted to the family rooms an equally buoying air.

Awtry & Lowndes service, Mr. Lowndes states, provides many things which the average person does not look for—things which most people think of as being entirely out of the scope of the profession. One illustration of this policy is reflected in the company's recent purchase of two new limousines which are confined almost wholly to use in transporting members of the bereaved families to and from their homes, the Cain street building and the chosen cemetery.

Road Builders Fast Learning Value of Using 'Caterpillar'

Here a "Caterpillar" Diesel Forty tractor is shown pulling a "Caterpillar" 44 leaning wheel grader, both purchased from Yancey Brothers, Inc., on a road construction job recently undertaken by Sam E. Finley, well-known Georgia road contractor.

Georgia road contractors are fast learning the rugged efficiency and the amazing economic value of "Caterpillar" Diesel tractors and road machinery—a fact sharply reflected in its use in virtually every county in the state—according to Goodloe H. Yancey, president of Yancey Brothers, Inc., at 634 Whitehall street, S. W., dealers for this world-famous equipment.

It is estimated that more than 200 "Caterpillar" Diesel engines, road machines and auto patrols have been sold within the past two years to contractors and to counties for road construction and maintenance in Georgia.

Among the recent purchasers of "Caterpillar" Diesel engines and of other "Caterpillar" equipment designed especially for road work are the W. L. Florence Construction Company, W. J. Carroll, Campbell Contracting Company, W. C. Shepherd, Smiley Sand Company, Columbus Sand & Gravel Company, Sam E. Finley and many others.

"Caterpillar" road machines, declares Mr. Yancey, have won widespread acceptance because of their remarkable stamina, performance and economy. Built with the strength and the earth-moving ability to correctly match the drawbar pull of the several sizes of "Caterpillar" tractors, they offer a combination of tractor power and grader at has been developed to win all that is possible in dollar value of miles of roads built and maintained.

"Caterpillar" blade graders, elevating graders, auto patrols, maintenance machines and terracers, he states, form a complete line of machines that are designed to meet the ever-expanding needs of road building, maintenance, earth-moving, construction work and terracing.

Mr. Yancey invites inquiry from or consultation with road contractors, county officials, farmers or other industrial users of power equipment or road machinery and will be glad to explain to any interested person the amazing economical possibility as provided through the use of "Caterpillar" equipment.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS No. 85

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Scaling the palisade of the brigand village, Tarzan dropped lightly to the ground, then crouched in the shadows, his keen eyes and ears alert for danger. The moonlight fell full upon the sentries at the gate. Their backs were toward Tarzan; would they remain thus?

That, concluded the ape-man, was a chance he must take. What was, was; and if he could not change it, certainly he would waste no time in ineffective regrets. Stealthily, he crept across the clearing, through patches of brilliant moonlight and dark shadow.

Only the complete silence of his jungle-trained footsteps enabled him to escape detection by the sentries. And now he circled the hut which hid from view the filthy hovel where his friend Tommy Welsh was held prisoner, awaiting cruel torture on the morrow.

There he encountered an unexpected obstacle. Before Tommy's hut sat a guard, a rifle across his knees. Tarzan drew back quickly, wondering he had been seen. If he had, the alarm would bring the brigand horde rushing down upon him, eager to slay him!

CLOUDY AND SHOWERS ON CITY'S MENU TODAY

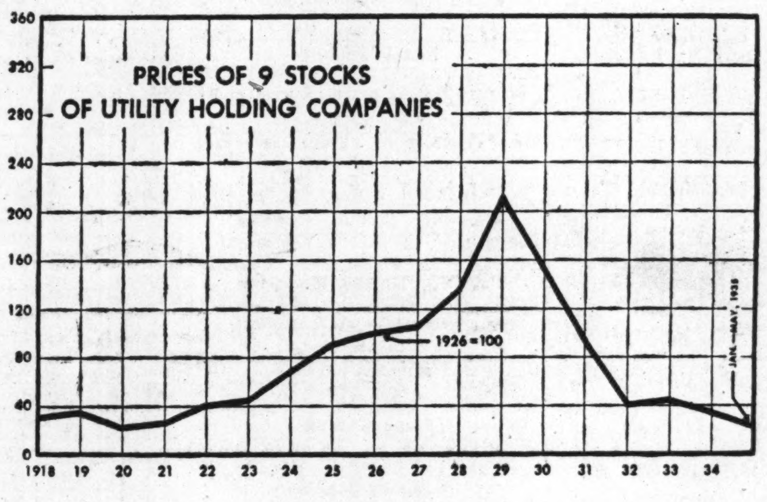

Probable showers are forecast for Atlanta today by the weatherman.

The sky will be partly cloudy and it will most certainly rain within the next few hours. A rainy area, which is covering most of the United States, is now moving down in Atlanta's direction and showers will come with it.

The temperature range yesterday of 68 and 86 degrees will be the approximate range for today.

CAN UTILITY STOCKS COME BACK?

Do not be deceived by defenders of the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill who try to discourage protests from investors by saying that the value of utility stocks cannot come back. Utility stocks can come back. They did come back—vigorously—a dozen years ago. The average prices of 9 gas and electric holding company stocks were approximately at the same level in the years from 1918 to 1921 as they have been in recent months. Yet by 1926—before the boom period—these stocks had climbed to a point four times as high as they were previously.

They have failed to enjoy any of the recovery made by stocks of other industries during the last two years because of the attacks from which utilities have suffered.

Utilities are taxed excessively. Their rates are being forced down. The Government is building huge competitive power projects, and is encouraging municipalities to build their own electric plants.

INVESTORS FACE COMPLETE RUIN

The damage to utility investments which has resulted would be completed by the passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill. This bill proposes to abolish utility holding companies, and to place about 91% of local electric companies under stifling political control. Millions of owners of utility securities would lose any chance of enjoying a rise in the prices of their securities. More than 300,000 investors in the Associated System alone would be affected.

Utility securities have a chance of recovering much of their former value if the Wheeler-Rayburn bill or similar legislation is killed. In 1934 electric customers numbered 24,566,000, a new high figure, and the use per domestic customer exceeded any level of the past. Electrical World estimates that if encouraged, instead of crippled, the public utilities can create new business of $16,500,000,000 in a two-year program. The gas industry, whose 2,000 companies serve 8,000 communities, also has remarkable opportunities for growth, especially in the use of gas for house heating and industrial purposes. Investors can share in the development of these strong industries if they are not hopelessly crippled by the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

INSIST THE BILL BE KILLED

Investors who want to protect their stocks and bonds, customers who want to protect their service, and taxpayers who want less government in business and lower taxes, should write immediately to their Senators and Representatives and insist that the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill be killed.

A Coal Miner Writes To His Senator

Dear Sir:

For your information I have been working in the coal mines for a period of 51 years, and as you no doubt are aware, wages have been plenty low during the greater part of that time.

Passing through many difficulties financially, I still managed to save a few dollars which I invested in public utility holding company securities. Now I feel that if this legislation passes, I and many others are going to suffer a loss which I am unable to take.

Therefore, I appeal to you as our Senator to exercise your rights to protest this bill and so protect many small investors like myself who struggled to provide for old age protection.

I remain,

Yours very truly,

Minersville, Pa.

(This letter was written by one of the 300,000 investors in the Associated System.)
